BISHOP CANNON INDICTED

Today

Thanks, Japan
Gold, Going Out
Cold Feet, High Up
Pullman Berth for 2

By Arthur Brisbane

DRAW IN your breath in Oriental fashion and thank Japan with a deep bow. Her statesmen do not want us meddling with her affairs, and they demand that the League of Nations cancel our invitation to help in the row between China and Japan. Be grateful to the Japanese for doing for us what our own government does not do. But do not be sure that we shall keep out, even with Japan's none too complimentary assistance. We have men, we have money. Europe likes to use them.

Trouble in China and Japan begins as usual. Japan discovers that it is necessary to take "protective measures" and send in protective forces. Japan is worried about the possibility of danger to a small Japanese military outpost. Such little things are kindling wood for a great fire.

The Federal Reserve Bank reports constant withdrawals from our gold supply. For instance, yesterday France took $42,146,000 more of our gold, requesting that a large part be sent in American $20 gold pieces. The French like to collect them.

Nearly a thousand million dollars in gold has been taken from our supply within four weeks. That should make somebody thoughtful.

You will learn with interest that France has balanced her budget "without resorting to loans, increasing taxes or drawing on the sinking fund."

Our budget balance is out of gear by more than a billion. England cannot balance her budget that requires four billion pounds, and knocks down the value of her pound to decrease the real amount of her debt.

The French are able financiers and business people. Their head men will soon be here in the United States to prove it to us, and we ought to learn something from them.

Senator Walsh of Massachusetts says the duty of business leaders is to restore prosperity and end the slump, and if business leaders don't do it, the lawmakers will.

It will be interesting to see just what the lawmakers do. Unfortunately, you can't make prosperity by law any more than you can make total abstinence by law.

Mr. Hyde, Secretary of Agriculture, talks plainly on the radio: "The stock market lies. It does not tell the country's real condition." That's true, it tells how high finance is shovelling out at any price the tens and hundreds of millions of shares of stock that it printed when fools were buying them.

The Pullman Company, compelled to cut dividends yesterday for the lack of earnings, requests permission to make a small extra charge of 20 per cent when two sleep in one berth. The demand is reasonable. Hotels charge more for two in a room. When George M. Pullman sold berths in his first car running from Chicago to Springfield, each berth was sold to two as a matter of course, and each one paid his half.

You know the story about the indignant passenger who said to Pullman: "I can't sleep with that long-legged man in the berth, his knees are in my back." The long-legged one was Abraham Lincoln.

Thomas A. Edison's end is near.

He has lain in a stupor for two days, and for several days has been unable to drink water or other fluid; he has eaten nothing for 10 days.

The task of leaving this life in which he has worked so hard will soon be over. And his name will live when the so-called "great" of his day shall be forgotten.

As France gathers in the gold of the world, by tens, hundreds, thousands of millions, Le Matin, of Paris, says without a smile: Gold comes to France because "holders of capital wish to transfer their holdings to a peaceful country, while converting their wealth into money of proved stability."

Premier Bennett of Canada says the worst of the world's troubles are over. "Some nation must start a recovery, why not Canada?"

The recovery ought to be started by this nation, and it will be before long. It would have started some time ago, except that financial institutions had first to shed their burden of worthless stocks, while sacrificing good properties, for the sake of the magic word "liquidity."

When our "cold feet in high places" get warmed a little, you will see a change.

Threat of Strike at B.U.

Members of the Boston University football team will go on strike tonight and refuse to play their scheduled game with Geneva College at Weston tomorrow unless Dr. Frederick Rand Rogers, head of the department of physical education, immediately rescinds his order to put into effect the system of player control of football games.

Dr. Rogers, sponsor of the plan which would give players complete control of the team during games and send the coaches into the stands, is somewhere in the Middle West on a lecture tour.

Last night the players held a secret meeting, and appointed James Truden, tackle, and Arthur French, manager of the team, to deliver the "ultimatum" to the university authorities.

This message was delivered to Daniel L. Marsh, president of the university, this morning.

TRAWLER GOES ASHORE IN FOG

With her captain and crew of 18 men aboard, the beam trawler Yankee sheered off her course in the lower harbor today and grounded on the southerly end of Lovell's Island in a heavy fog.

The Yankee was inbound to the fish pier, heavily laden with a 60,000-pound catch from the fishing grounds.

For four hours she lurched to port while the Ross tug Pow Wow stood by ready to aid.

The trawler was floated under her own power, however, and proceeded to the fish pier.

Capt. William Hanlon reported the thick fog caused him to lose the regular course in the main ship channel. The vessel rested on sandy bottom, but narrowly missed a rocky ledge close by.

Early arrivals in the harbor made their berths before the dense fog settled down but ships arriving later were delayed at anchor off the Graves and Boston Light until blanket lifted.

Fog and rain will continue until early tonight, the weather man predicted. The weather will then remain cloudy but cooler through tomorrow.

'MALDEN BANK SAFE'—ELY

So satisfactory is the condition of the Malden Trust Co. in Malden that the Commonwealth of Massachusetts will increase the amount of State funds on deposit in that bank, Gov. Ely in a letter today, advised President George H. Corey of the Malden institution.

The Governor's letter said:

"My Dear Mr. Corey: The very recent examination of your institution by the bank commissioner satisfies me that the Malden Trust Co. is in A-1 condition.

"I have, this day, instructed the treasurer to increase further the deposits of State funds in your bank."

The capital of the Malden Trust Co. is $500,000 and the state, by law, can deposit state funds up to a maximum of 40 per cent of a bank's capital.

At present there is $109,000 of state funds in the Malden Trust Co. and the state will deposit $91,000 additional to bring the sum up to the full $200,000.

FALLS AS SHE PRAYS FOR 'HEALING'

1500 Then Offer Prayers That She Gain Strength to Finish Revival Here

Aimee McPherson Hutton's "healing service" at the Boston Garden this afternoon was transformed into a prayer service for her, too, as she faltered from fatigue in the midst of the service and sank in a chair.

She had fought against a complete collapse all forenoon, remaining in bed until time for the service to start, and then had hurried tardily to the Garden.

As she delivered her altar call, to which about 25 sick responded, she staggered backward and slumped heavily into a [illegible]

STRENGTH FAILS HER

Her husband, David Hutton, sprang to her side and [illegible] her. She closed her eyes and put one hand to her throat and the other to her heart. A few minutes later she murmured that she was all right, and Hutton took her place in praying over the suppliants.

The evangelist then sat on the arm of the chair and in a low voice asked them to pray for her recovery.

Earlier today her husband told reporters that her strength failed her after the service last night before a record crowd of 18,000, followed by an ordeal of handshaking at the altar. Arriving at the Garden today, leaning on the arm of her secretary, she found 1500 awaiting her.

"We pray that we may be touched by the healing power of Thy hand," she prayed, as she opened the service. "May the blind see, and the deaf hear and the lame walk."

35 TELL OF "CURES"

Aimee then called on all those who had been healed by prayer, either at her meetings or at those

CANNON IS INDICTED IN SMITH-PROBE

Cleric and Woman Aid Accused of "Plot" in the Handling of Campaign Funds

Washington, Oct. 16 (AP)—Bishop James Cannon was indicted today for conspiracy to violate the Federal Corrupt Practices Act in his handling of funds of the anti-Smith Democrats committee in 1928.

Miss Ada L. Burroughs of Richmond, Va., who was treasurer of the committee headed by the Southern Methodist clergyman, was indicted with him.

The two were ordered to trial by a District of Columbia grand jury on charges of failing to report contributions of $65,300 by E. C. Jameson, New York capitalist and Republican, as required by the federal statutes.

They were indicted on 10 counts.

FACE HEAVY PENALTY

Pending the fixing of a date for trial, counsel prepared to arrange bond for the bishop and Miss Burroughs. If convicted the two are liable to a fine of not more than $10,000 and imprisonment for not more than two years.

When the jury made its report today, District Attorney Rover, in a statement, said requests by the bishop to appear before the grand jury and to have certain other witnesses appear were transmitted by him to the jury, and "that body was advised it was within its province to grant the request if it so desired."

Kubitsky Will Be 'Cabot' Even if Nose Is Poked

Even a punch on the nose, by a blue blood that would draw red blood—even that wouldn't stop Samuel Kubitsky, from using the name of Samuel Cabot in the telephone book.

The real Samuel Cabot, having found that the listing of Samuel Cabot at 88 Nightingale st. was really that of Kubitsky, not only went to court for an injunction against the Kubitsky-Cabot in the use of the Cabot name, but threatened, through lawyers, to punch the Kubitsky-Cabot nose, the latter revealed.

"Tsck, tsck," said the Kubitsky-Cabot, sorrowfully, as he plied his paint brush on an inside job. "Mr. Cabot shouldn't feel that way. But even if it was a mistake in the first place, I wouldn't

ACCEPTS A SEAT AT TABLE OF COUNCIL

Gilbert Explains American Attitude on the Dispute of China and Japan

By FREDERICK B. ABBOTT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

Geneva, Oct. 16—The United States tonight formally entered League of Nations negotiations to mediate in the Sino-Japanese dispute when Consul-General Prentiss Gilbert, on momentous instructions from Washington, took his seat with the League council.

The council meeting was called to order at 6:15 p. m.

Gilbert, a few hours earlier, had informed the league secretariat of America's acceptance of the council's invitation to participate, which had been cabled to Washington despite Japan's continued opposition.

The council at the same time had informed Secretary of State Stimson that it intended to proceed first by invoking the Kellogg anti-war pact in its efforts to preserve peace in the Far East.

This was agreed upon because the United States fathered that pact, though not a member of the league.

Aristide Briand, French foreign minister who is presiding, opened tonight's session and read Mr. Gilbert's letter of acceptance.

The council hall was packed to the bursting point and Briand was heard with difficulty.

GILBERT TAKES SEAT

After he had concluded the reading Briand said:

"If there are no objections, I will invite the representative of the United States to join us."

Gilbert was then lead into the council room by a uniformed League attendant, followed by United States Consuls Curtis T. Everett and James W. Riddleberger.

He appeared extremely nervous as he took his seat at the extreme left of the horseshoe, next to Delegate Caray of Panama and opposite Dr. Alfred Sze of China.

Gilbert thanked the Council for extending the invitation to Washington and then explained the viewpoint of the United States as expressed in a carefully worded communication of instructions from Secretary of State Stimson in Washington.

Gilbert immediately made it clear that the United States does not propose to take any part in the disciplinary measures the Council is qualified to launch in dealing with aggression on the part of any League member.

"My Government," he said, "does not seek to intrude with respect to such measures as you may propose under the covenant of the League of Nations and is not in a position to participate with the members of the Council in formulation of any action envisaged under that instrument for composing differences existing between two of its members."

STIMSON'S ORDERS

Gilbert's instructions from Washington as read to the council are:

"You are authorized to participate in the discussions of the council when they relate to the possible application of the Kellogg-Briand pact, to which the United States is a party.

"You are expected to report the result of such discussions to the department for its determination as to possible action. If you are present at the discussion of any other aspects of the Japanese-Chinese dispute, it must be only as an observer and auditor."

Chinese Commander Given Orders to Fight Japanese

Peiping, Oct. 16 (INS)—For the first time since the Japanese invasion of Manchuria early in September, orders went out to a Chinese commander in the field today to resist with force "any further attempts at Japanese encroachment of Chinese territory."

The orders were sent from Peiping by Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang, Governor of Manchuria, to Chang Shue-Shen, in charge of Chinese military operations in the vicinity of Chang-Wu.

Japs Report Bandit Army Overrunning Province

Mukden, Oct. 16—Japanese military authorities here reported today that a so-called "independent" army is overrunning Heilunkiang province, following the flight from there of Gen. Wan-Kuo-Ping, son of former Governor Wan Fu-Lin.

About $6000 and a large number of watches, rings and other valuables were recovered today from the corpses of eight Chinese killed in the Liuho engagement. The Japanese declare that this was undoubtedly loot.

CAPONE BEING 'MADE GOAT'

By VICTOR HACKLER

Federal Building, Chicago, Oct. 16 (AP)—The government was charged by Al Capone's attorneys today with attempting to convict the gangster on charges of violating income tax laws "only to appease and respond to public clamor."

Albert Fink, pleading the gang chief's case in arguments before a federal jury, said the "big question" to be decided was whether a jury could be "persuaded and conned" into returning a verdict of guilty, without sufficient evidence, but to satisfy the "supposed public excitement."

"NO DOUBT OF GUILT"

The jury had just listened to Government prosecutors say "not ever a child" could doubt Capone had a huge income and that the evidence left no doubt he had tried to conceal his income and evade taxes.

Fink told the 12 men, most of them farmers and elderly businessmen, that he didn't think he need "waste much time on the evidence," which he said did not even rise to the dignity of hearsay evidence of guilty." He stressed the fact that "the presumption of innocence is affirmative evidence in favor of the accused."

Capone was pictured by Fink as a citizen who made "unusually vigorous" attempts in 1930 to pay his income tax.

HE WAS IN JAIL

Such conduct, the attorney said, make unreasonable the charge against him of being guilty of a 'wilful failure to file an income tax return, with intent to defraud the government.'"

"In 1929 Capone was put in a Philadelphia jail for carrying a gun," Fink said. "We find he was released 10 months later on March 17, 1930—two days after his income tax report was due. He immediately took steps to get in his report; even got an attorney to help him. Some of the statements made by that attorney to the government investigators was used as evidence against Capone in this trial."

Peter Nottis was fined $100 in municipal court today for practising dentistry without a license. He appealed. A fine of $100 was imposed on Dr. Julius Weinstein for failing to display his certificate of registration. He appealed.

Brockton, Oct. 16—Pretty Juliet Salamie bowed sorrowfully today a head shorn of every vestige of her brunette tresses—but what police can do about it has the officers puzzled.

"My mother and father shaved all my hair off."

To the Salamie home in Elliott st. police proceeded, and were received by the parents, who admitted cutting off their daughter's hair because she would not obey orders to keep away from a certain girl chum.

'WAMPAS BABY' SOBS IN TRIAL

Los Angeles, Oct. 16 (INS)—Red-haired Jocelyn Lee, one-time Wampas baby star, wept today when she testified in defense of charges that she kicked the French windows out of a Hollywood home.

"When I went to Ivan St. Johns' home and asked for Luther Reed, my divorced husband," Miss Lee testified, "Luther came to the door and I asked him for money because our two children were hungry.

"He threw a lighted cigaret in my face and told me to 'Get the money on the streets.'"

Miss Cook, a nurse at Massachusetts Memorial Hospital, was driving the car on Mr. Rudolph's license, according to the police.

Both were extricated from the auto by passing motorists who took them to United States Marine Hospital, Hingham, from which they were removed to Weymouth Hospital.

Rudolph's skull was fractured.

N. E. BANKS FREE OF "ICE," SAYS BUCKLIN

Lead U. S. in Escaping Handicap of Frozen Assets, He Tells Convention

New England banks lead the country in freedom from the handicap of frozen assets, Walter S. Bucklin, president of the National Shawmut Bank and chairman of the Bankers' Committee of the New England Council, told 250 New England bank managers today in opening their second annual conference in the Hotel Statler.

Furthermore, he added, the large banks in Boston, with plenty of ready money, are eager and willing to throw their resources into the national campaign for business revival.

"I believe the large banks in New York and Boston are more liquid today than they ever have been before," President Bucklin said.

READY TO AID RELIEF

"Some of us have seen this situation approaching and have prepared for it. We have our assets in such liquid shape that I think we are better off in New England and New York than elsewhere.

"I am not so familiar with the situation in Chicago, St. Louis and other places, but you can rest assured that here in Boston the large banks are extremely liquid and ready to co-operate and help in every way if such help is needed."

Mr. Bucklin's address preceded the reading of papers on various phases of the banking business by several of the delegates, many of whom echoed the optimistic note sounded by their presiding officer.

OTHER SPEAKERS

Discussions followed the reading of the papers, which were presented by T. I. Hare Powel, investment counsel of the Providence (R.I.) National Bank, who spoke on "Safeguarding Collateral Loans;" Burns P. Hodgman, president of the First National Bank of Concord, N. H., whose topic was the field of small loans for banks; Levi P. Smith, vice-president of the Burlington (Vt.) Savings Bank, who discussed credit data, and John Schmidt, Jr., superintendent of the Hartford (Ct.) Accident and Indemnity Co.

Others who spoke were Thomas M. Steele, president of the First National Bank & Trust Co. of New Haven; Laurence W. Connor, president of the Agricultural National Bank of Pittsfield, Mass.; Ralph A. Bramhall, vice-president of the Portland, Me., National Bank, and O. Howard Wolfe, cashier of the Philadelphia, Pa., National Bank.

H. C. M'GRATH HURT IN CRASH

Hugh C. McGrath, veteran football and track official and athletic advisor at Harvard, was injured today when his sedan was in collision with a truck at Western ave., and No. Harvard sts., Allston.

McGrath's sedan was forced onto the sidewalk. He suffered injuries to his knee and the right side of his head.

The injured official was taken to Cambridge City Hospital where he was treated as an out patient by Dr. Edward J. O'Brien, Jr., his personal physician, member of the hospital staff, and football referee.

McGrath said he was driving along North Harvard st. on a return trip to the university after driving his daughter to her studies at Boston University Art School, Garrison st., Back Bay.

The truck was bound toward Cambridge on Western ave. when McGrath started to cross toward Harvard Stadium.

William L. Gove of Allston st., Allston, the truck driver, escaped injury. Police Capt. Perley Skillings said Gove would be charged with reckless driving.

McGrath, due to leave for Philadelphia tonight to officiate at the Lehigh-University of Pennsylvania football game tomorrow, said the accident would not force any change in his plans.

School Head Hits "Beer Prosperity"

"Beer prosperity" is a myth, members of the Massachusetts Anti-Saloon League were told today at Tremont Temple by Rev. Vaughan Dabney, dean-elect of Andover-Newton Theological School.

Rev. Dabney was one of several speakers at a conference on temperance education and prohibition under the auspices of the league. He rose to the defense of the modern youth also, branding as false statements that youths of today are "flask toters."

HOOVER 'SPITE' HIT FOR NAVY YARD PLIGHT

Mayor Says Purchase of Two Plane Carriers Would Solve Problem; Meeting Called

Intimation that President Hoover is contemplating abolishing the Boston Navy Yard "through desire to punish the people of Massachusetts because the State failed to support him in the last presidential election," came today from Mayor Curley as action was being taken here to block such a closing.

This action was the calling of a conference of Metropolitan officials and business men for Tuesday in the auditorium of the Chamber of Commerce by Henry I. Harriman, president of the Chamber.

WOULD BUY CARRIERS

Mayor Curley, who will attend the conference, declared today that if an offer of New England interests to buy the two navy airplane carriers, Lexington and Saratoga, were accepted, there would be an annual saving of $8,000,000 to the Navy—more than enough to continue both the Boston Navy Yard and the Newport, R. I., Training Station.

"Naval maneuvers of the past three years have demonstrated that the airplane carriers cannot be operated efficiently in naval fleet maneuvers because of their excessive speed," he said.

"A group of New England citizens have under consideration a proposition to be submitted to the navy department and the U. S. Shipping Board for taking over the Saratoga and the Lexington and their operation from Boston to Europe on a four-day sailing schedule.

"The transfer of these ships from the Navy Department to private New England interests would result in an annual maintenance saving of $8,000,000. The total cost of operation of the Boston navy yard approximates only $5,000,000. The cost of operating the Newport Training Station is about $1,000,000 additional.

"It is possible, through the transfer, to effect a saving of $2,000,000 in excess of what would be saved provided the Navy Department continued to operate the Lexington and Saratoga.

"And it is to be sincerely hoped that President Hoover, unless he is actuated solely with a desire to punish the people of Massachusetts because the state failed to support him in the last presidential election, will take advantage of the opportunity presented to serve and be of service.

MAYORS AID FIGHT

"Governor Ely, Mayor Curley, mayors of other Greater Boston cities and prominent business men numbering 100 or more will attend the meeting next Tuesday," Mr. Harriman said in calling Tuesday's conference. "A meeting would be called for an earlier date, but Tuesday is the first day on which we could get the men together.

"In addition to state and city officials and prominent business men, persons who have been working to eliminate unemployment in metropolitan Boston and others interested in the development of Boston harbor have been invited.

"If Boston navy yard is wiped out it will mean that 2000 men will be thrown out of work, and this represents an annual payroll of $4,000,000."

Governor Ely expressed great surprise that naval officials should contemplate closing the Boston yard at this time. He said last night he would have some comment to offer today.

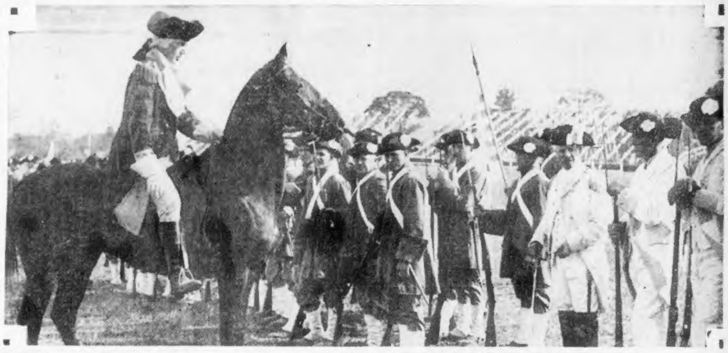
George Washington Whips Enemy, Then Feasts Him, as Yorktown Relives Stirring History

LORD CORNWALLIS GEN. GEORGE WASHINGTON GEN. ROCHAMBEAU

Turning back Time's pages till that most thrilling part in the Nation's history was reached, Yorktown, Va., today began the celebration of the sesquicentennial of the battle of Yorktown—that crucial engagement which broke the British hold upon America. Here you see George Washington and his ally, Gen. Rochambeau, feasting with Lord Cornwallis. Contents of the bottles and goblets may have lessened the latter's pangs of regret. The celebration lasts through Monday. Among distinguished visitors is the present Lord Cornwallis, come to see how an ancestor took his defeat.



Gen. Washington, in a cheering and hopeful address to the Continental troops on the eve of the battle of Yorktown. This event is depicted faithfully in the sesquicentennial celebration beginning at Yorktown today. Here the row of American forces are shown in irregular file just before they went to meet and, aided by their French allies, defeat the Hessians and the British. Notables from around the world were on hand in Yorktown for the celebration, many prominent French visitors being included among the guests honored by public officials today. ACTRESS NAMES HAYAKAWA AS 'FATHER'

Los Angeles, Oct. 16 (INS)—Ruth Noble, beautiful young American stage actress, today named Sessue Hayakawa, noted Japanese actor, as the father of her baby son, as a legal spotlight glared on their "blighted romance."

In a complaint on file today Miss Noble sought to set aside the adoption of her child, under the name of Alexander Hayes, by Hayakawa and his Japanese wife, Tsuri Ooki, stage and screen actress.

The baby, born January 31, 1929, in New York city, was adopted August 26 by Mr. and Mrs. Hayakawa after they had agreed to pay her $4500 and $150 a month indefinitely, Miss Noble stated.

"But mother love forces me to try to break my contract with them," she sobbed.

Before Hayakawa returned to Hollywood June 4, to resume the motion picture career he abandoned 12 years ago, he appeared in a vaudeville act "The Bandit Prince" with Miss Noble.

GRAPE FIRM IS FOUND GUILTY

Kansas City, Oct. 16 (AP)—The sale of unfermented grape concentrate designed for the manufacture of alcoholic beverages was held by Federal District Judge Merrill E. Otis today to be in violation of the national prohibition laws.

Judge Otis convicted the Ukiah Grape Products Co., Inc., of New York, on seven counts charging violation of the prohibition laws in a test case to determine the legality of the sale of grape concentrate which may be turned into wine.

The corporation was fined $100 on each count. Albert E. Brunett, formerly Kansas City manager of the company and a co-defendant, was fined $40 each on five counts charging sale.

The Ukiah company was fined $100 on each of two counts charging possession of grape concentrate product. Brunett was acquitted on two similar counts.

Judge Otis heard the case without a jury. The case was submitted on points of law, both sides having agreed to the general facts.

Attorneys for the corporation announced they would appeal.

"So far as I know, we are operating with full knowledge of the prohibition authorities, and are staying strictly within the law."

This statement was made by a representative of the Vino-Sano Sales Company today.

Sale of any substance with intent that it be used for the illegal manufacture of intoxicating liquor is an offense against the National Prohibition Act, Asst. U. S. Atty. Elihu D. Stone said today.

She is suing to set aside a "contract" she made to let him have the child for $4500 cash and $150 a month. (International Newsreel photo.)

Yorktown, Va., Oct. 16 (AP)—Lord Cornwallis, descendant of the English earl who surrendered at the battle of Yorktown, today responded to Virginia's dedication of a memorial to his ancestor with the statement that "War is behind, peace is in front, we hope, for evermore."

"Friends have sent me press clippings intimating that I might find some delicacy in appearing here today," Lord Cornwallis said. "I asure you that such delicacy never crossed my mind.

"Forty-eight hours after Yorktown, Gen. Washington entertained Lord Cornwallis, and from that moment all animosity was forgotten."

Dedication of the bust of Lord Cornwallis at York Hall, home of Thomas Nelson, war governor of Virginia and Cornwallis' headquarters at Yorktown, officially opened the four-day celebration of the sesqui-centennial of the battle that ended the Revolution.

COSTS $100 TO BE SAMARITAN

The early morning trail of his estranged wife and her employer by an ousted Swampscott policeman was aired in Lynn Court today, but it cost a "Good Samaritan" friend $100.

The friend, James D. Carroll of Ingalls ter., Swampscott, was fined that amount for drunken driving.

Samuel Blaine Kehoe, former college athlete and discharged for rum running in Swampscott, obtained the aid of Carroll to follow Mrs. Nellie Kehoe from the restaurant of Carl C. Blaney, where she is employed.

HAD SOME BEER

Efforts of Kehoe to tell the court the reasons for following his wife were refuted by Judge Ralph W. Reeve, who ruled the question was whether or not Carroll was operating under the influence of liquor.

"Kehoe and I left Legion headquarters that night (Oct. 9) and we had a bite to eat.

"We parked near Blaney's restaurant and Kehoe asked me if I would drive him when Blaney left with his wife.

"I had some beer before supper, but we attended an installation and card party meanwhile and started to follow Blaney and Mrs. Kehoe at 1:30 a. m.

"I saw Blaney and Mrs. Kehoe get into the car and we followed. The next thing I knew I was under arrest."

APPEAL FINE

Blaney testified he was taking Mrs. Kehoe home after making a night deposit in a Lynn bank when he realized his car was being followed.

"I thought of robbery and the first chance I got I told an officer,' he said.

Metropolitan Officer William Murphy testified he stopped Carroll for questioning and noticed he smelled liquor and acted "wobbly."

Carroll appealed the fine and was held in bonds of $500 for Superior court.

LINDBERGHS ON SHIP DURING RESCUE

San Francisco, Oct. 16 (AP)—Attempts of the liner President Jefferson to communicate by radio at 6 o'clock this morning with the stricken Japanese freighter Yonan Maru failed, giving rise to the belief that the latter had gone down.

San Francisco, Oct. 16 (AP)—Wireless messages intercepted by the MacKay radio station here today said the Japanese freighter Yonan Maru, about 500 miles west of Dutch Harbor, Aleutian islands, was sinking rapidly with decks awash.

The messages, sent by the American steamer President Jefferson, did not explain how the vessel had been damaged. The Jefferson was about 80 miles from the Yonan Maru and rushing to the scene.

Among the passengers on the Jefferson are Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, returning from China, where their air tour was interrupted by the death of Mrs. Lindbergh's father, Senator Dwight W. Morrow of New Jersey.

The Yonan Maru left Portland, Ore., for Shanghai September 30. She is a vessel of 8800 tons and 423 feet in length. She carries a crew of about 40.

'KEEP U. S. DRY!' URGES GANDHI

In the opinion of Mahatma Gandhi it would be a "shame and a shock to the world" if America abandons prohibition, the state wide conference on temperance education and prohibition was told at Tremont Temple today.

A message of the Indian Nationalist leader was sent to Arthur J. Davis, state superintendent of the Massachusetts Anti-Saloon League, from London.

Gandhi wrote:

"Dear Friend: It was a brave step, worthy of America, to have undertaken the most difficult task for her of total prohibition. It would be a shame and a rude shock to reformers throughout the world, if for any cause America abandoned the policy and returned to the drink evil."

GIRL SAVED, BUT MAN DIES

Worcester, Oct. 16—Cheated of a little girl whose life was saved in a race against time and a borrowed Drinker respirator, death snatched another infantile paralysis victim today from the City Hospital machine.

While physicians reported that Barbara Sanderson, nine, of Monson, was resting comfortably in a respirator borrowed from Boston, Ralph Carew, 37, also of Monson, died in that owned by the local hospital.

His three children, Helen, 14; Sarah, 8, and Mary, 18 months, are ill at home with the same ailment. Monson health officials have forbidden the sale of milk from his dairy.

The death of Carew, a dairyman, was the sixth in Worcester since the start of the infantile paralysis epidemic.

Members of the hospital staff battled for six hours late yesterday to keep the child alive with artificial respiration while a respirator was being obtained in Boston and rushed here by truck.

She was breathing with the utmost difficulty, but Carew, who had been in the respirator for a week, could not be removed.

Placed in the machine on its arrival, the child was said to show immediate improvement and hopes are held out for her recovery.

MORROW LEFT $20,000,000 ESTATE

New York, Oct. 16 (AP)—The American, quoting "an informed source," says the late Senator Dwight W. Morrow of New Jersey left an estate "close to twenty million dollars."

Only half of the total, according to the American, is subject to inheritance taxes, the rest of the fortune being in the form of accounts carried in the names of members of his family and others. These accounts, estimated at $10,000,000, are technically not part of the estate.

The newspaper understands Mrs. Morrow is named sole executor, and to her will go a life interest in the estate after bequests to friends, servants and charities are taken out.

Accounts totalling $1,500,000, the newspaper was told, were carried in the names of Morrow's four children. Other accounts are believed to be in the names of Amherst College, the late senator's alma mater, and Smith College.

Mrs. Wrenn was treated for a severe laceration of the right side of her jaw.

Lorraine Wrenn, 7, suffered cuts and a possible fracture and Shirley, 3, was bruised. Lorraine may lose the sight of her right eye, according to Dr. William H. Chapman.

Frank O. Getchell of East Eagle st., East Boston, driver of the truck, escaped injury. Both machines skidded on the wet road, police said.

UPTON WOMAN KILLED, 3 HURT IN CRASH

Mrs. Edith Pease, 69, of Upton, a widow, and mother of Dr. George Pease of 33 Dartmouth st., was instantly killed today, and three other persons were injured just outside Savannah, Ga., when their automobile was struck by the car of a hit-and-run driver and capsized over an embankment.

The injured are Mrs. Edna L. Arms of 3 Ashmore st., Worcester, also a widow, and mother of Dr. Walter T. Arms, Worcester dentist; and Mr. and Mrs. Frederick J. Manning, formerly of Massachusetts, but now of Miami, Fla.

Manning, now traffic manager for the city of Miami, once was attached to the Massachusetts motor vehicle registrar's office. He suffered internal injuries, but Mrs. Manning and Mrs. Arms were only slightly injured.

DEMOCRATS TO ASSAIL TARIFF AND DRY LAW

By LOUIS SEIBOLD
(Copyright, 1931)

Washington, Oct. 15 (US)—Democrats of all factional shades are busily unlimbering their heaviest artillery preparatory to shelling the three weakest spots in the Republican line of defense.

These are the tariff, prohibition and the manhandling of economic problems confronting the country.

While both parties are at present split over the wet and dry issue, there is little if any Democratic dissension as to the political value of the tariff.

TARIFF BIG ISSUE

The initial blast will be in the nature of a joint radio debate between Democratic Senator Pat Harrison and Republican Senator Dickinson, scheduled during the next two weeks.

The incident is important because it marks the line of Democratic tariff strategy and indicates the purpose of the Republican managers to accept the challenge. The Democrats believe that Congress will not modify the Hoover-Smoot-Hawley tariff bill.

If their conclusion is correct the tariff is certain to play a more important part in the presidential campaign than at any time during the last fifty years.

The Democratic estimate is that the Republican tariff policy has imposed on wage earners a staggering burden that cannot properly be attributed to world conditions. This contention is directly reverse of the Republican statement of the case.

EXPORTS DROP OFF

The Democratic view is unquestionably supported by the attitude of influential business organizations, civic bodies and merchants and citizens generally.

Much of the complaint directed against the Hoover-Smoot-Hawley tariff bill comes from Republicans and not Democrats. In proof of this Democratic contention is cited the wave of popular disapproval of the tariff law, which has become nation-wide.

During the fiscal year ended June 30 last exports fell off 34 per cent and imports 37 per cent, held by the Democrats to be largely due to prohibitive tariff duties.

HOOVER'S NAVAL SLASH DETAILS ARE REVEALED

Washington, Oct. 16 (AP)—The Boston and Charleston, S. C., Navy Yards and the operating base at New Orleans would be closed under the reduced budget plan devised under orders from President Hoover.

The proposed means for effecting expenditure reductions may be altered again by the budget bureau, or before reaching Congress. However, as it stands on arrival at Capital Hill, much conflict is expected there over the Navy's program.

SLASHES DEFENSES

Calculated to trim the budget between $50,000,000 and $61,000,000, the plan includes.

Slash the navay personnel afloat by nearly 3000; reduce marine corps by nearly 1000; reduce civilian personnel by 3000; discontinuing navy bands at various stations; reduce naval reserve activities 11 per cent; placing naval ammunition depot at Lake Denmark, N. J., and naval training station at Newport, R. I., in inoperative status; placing marine corps training station at Parris Island, S. C., in reduced commission station; shutting down a number of radio stations and disposing of some of the obsolete shore stations; laying up of the recently reconditioned U. S. Constitution.

CUT FLEETS, TOO

Congressional circles already are discussing the proposed cuts, which also would provide for placing the battleship Wyoming and the old cruiser Rochester out of commission; putting two 8-inch gun cruisers in reserve, and placing six submarines in reserve; reducing the crew of the U. S. Rigel, receiving ship at San Diego, which has charge of the destroyers at the base there; reducing fleet aviation activities; placing the aircraft tender Jason out of commission as well as its attendant aircraft; assigning of two destroyers to the special service squadron which operates in Central American waters instead of two gunboats assigned to Asiatic forces.

About one-half of the Navy and Marine Corps recruiting stations would be closed.

RACING CREWS HAVE DAY OFF

By TOM HORGAN

Halifax, N. S. Oct. 16 (AP)—A day of inactivity faced the crews of the Canadian defender Bluenose and the American challenger for the international fishermen's trophy the schooner Gertrude L. Thebaud of Gloucester, Mass., today.

Capt. Angus Walters, Bluenose skipper, decided he would not haul out again before going to the starting line. A slight leak in the boat did not develop seriously and Walters said he would take his chances as Bluenose now laid in the dock.

Capt. Ben Pine of Gloucester, skipper of Thebaud, said he would not take her out on a marine railway unless asked to do so by the race committee for new measurements.

He said his boat was in excellent condition and required no further attention before facing the starting gun tomorrow at 9 a. m.

HUB CONVICT DIES IN CHAIR

Chicago, Oct. 16—Mark J. Davis, alias Richard Sullivan, former Boston gangster, walked the "last mile" to the electric chair at Cook County jail, the last of four condemned slayers to be executed early today.

Davis went to his death content in the belief that he had masked his real name under the alias of Sullivan.

Frank Bell, convicted with Davis in the slaying of Christ Patras, restaurant owner, received a stay of execution only 30 minutes before he was to die.

The executions took place in rapid order, only 35 minutes elapsing between the time the first slayer walked to the death house and Davis was pronounced dead. Carl Carlson, alias Frank Jordan, who shot and killed two policemen, was the first to go. Charles Rocco, a former Massachusetts convict, was the second and was followed by John Popescue. Both pleaded guilty to the killing of Courtney Merrill, Chicago banker.

Heiress Convicted in 4 Torch Murders

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 16 (INS)—Miss Kate Keller, 25, heiress and niece of the late Judge Darwin Curtis, today was convicted by a jury of 11 men and a woman of being an accessory after the fact in the notorious Washtenaw county torch murders three months ago when four young persons were slain and their bodies burned.

Miss Keller now faces a term of from one to five years in prison. She is alleged to have sheltered Fred Smith, her sweetheart and "brains" of the trio of slayers.

$5000 for Bowdoin

FEDERAL RAIL CONTROL URGED

Washington Oct. 16 (INS)—Competition by publicly owned and operated utilities and railroads as the only effective method of government regulation of these basic industries was recommended today to Congress by the committee on public utilities of the Progressive Economic Conference.

The report, written by Donald Richberg of Chicago, labor attorney and utilities expert, was made public by Senator Norris (R), Nebraska, chairman of the conference. It was found that political regulation of utilities had broken down and instead of the government controlling them they were dominating the government.

Prince Punches Time Clock; Calls Slang in U. S. 'Hot Stuff'

Detroit, Oct. 16 (AP)—Punching a time clock at the Ford Motor Co. plant here with other employes, Prince Louis Ferdinand von Hohenzollern, 22, a grandson of the former kaiser, admits he is having the time of his life.

He thinks American slang "is what you call 'hot stuff,'" professes to have no political opinions and is prouder of a doctor of philosophy degree received from the University of Berlin than he is of his title of prince.

The prince is endeavoring to learn American industrial methods and merchandising practices.

DON MOYLE TO GO TO JAIL

Los Angeles, Oct. 16 (AP)—Don Moyle, transpacific flier, has been ordered committed to the Los Angeles county jail, November 2, to serve a 20-day jail term for driving a motor car while intoxicated. He pleaded guilty last July 15.

Judge B. R. Schauer, of the superior court, granted extension of the time for execution of the sentence, originally set for Oct. 1.

The flier had pleaded he wished two weeks more in which to enjoy the fruits of his roundabout flight with Cecil Allen from Tokio to America.

AKRON OFF ON 2000-MILE HOP

Akron, O., Oct. 16 (AP)—The U. S. S. Akron, world's largest airship today began her longest and probably her final cruise before being turned over to the navy.

The ship took off at 8:50 a. m. for a 48-hour endurance flight that is expected to cover 2000 miles.

Although no official announcement was made as to what course the Akron would follow, it was reported she would be flown eastward.

The present flight will fill the schedule of 100 hours of test flight required by the government before it accepts the new $5,500,000 air leviathan from the Goodyear Zeppelin corporation.

It was understood the previous tests have indicated the Akron meets specifications and the ship is expected to be delivered at the Lakehurst, N. J., station next week.

Rides Into Heart of Heiress Via the Taxicab Route

Beverly Hills, Cal., Oct. 16—A romantic taxicab driver figuratively drove his way into the heart of Miss Florence A. McAllister, 18-year-old heiress to Oklahoma oil millions.

Edward Challette's expert maneuvering of a taxi in which Miss McAllister was a passenger so won her admiration she hired him as her chauffeur and later married him.

Mrs. Challette is the daughter of the late Mrs. Florence McAllister, who died in 1930, leaving an estate of $3,000,000 to three children in valuable Indian oil lands in Oklahoma.

It was reported that Mrs. Challette's annual income from her share in the lands amounted to $240,000.

RECLUSE WIDOW 'DOLLING UP'

New York, Oct. 16 (INS)—Mrs. Ida E. Wood is back today in the apartment in which she had spent 17 years as a recluse, alone with her memories of a dead but gorgeous past.

Gone, however, were the treasures she had hoarded: $900,000 in time-faded bills, rare jewels, antique dresses. These had been taken over by Otis F. Wood, her nephew and committee of estate.

Mrs. Wood has agreed to wear a less ancient dress than she had worn for a long time, and to wear stockings. But the little hermit—she is 93 and weighs but 70 pounds—insisted on making her own coffee.

Two new claimants to the fortune of Mrs. Wood entered into the tangled case today. They are Lindsay W. Mayfield and his stepson, Earl Neville Mayfield of New Orleans. The former believes his grandfather was a brother of Mrs. Wood whose maiden name was Mayfield.

Three more prospective heirs are Howard and Henry Wood and Mrs. Mabel Wood Russ, children of Howard Wood, a brother of Mrs. Shields.

German Flier Sues Rody for Pilot Fee on Vain Sea Hop

Hamburg, Oct. 16 (AP)—Capt. Johannsen, German flier, fixes the piloting charges from Lisbon to a point in the Atlantic off Cape Race at 5000 marks.

He is suing Willy Rody, his companion, in a Hamburg court for that amount as wages on their attempted flight to New York in September. With Fernando De Costa Viega, they were forced down by lack of fuel, floated more than six days and were rescued by a passing vessel.

Science has found a new way—a rich, delicious, inexpensive new source of sunshine vitamin-D, Bond Bread. Just one to two slices of Bond Bread each meal gives all the additional sunshine vitamin-D your body requires.

Notes and Gossip About People You Know

SIX AFTER THREE POSTS

Edward H. Redstone, State librarian, is one of six candidates who will fight it out on November 3 for the three places on the Cambridge school committee. One of these vacancies, by the way, was caused by the expiration of the term of State Treasurer Charles F. Hurley.

IT'S IN THE BLOOD

"Tom" Fitzgerald, son of John F., is being mentioned prominently in State House gossip as successor to State Fire Marshal John W. Reth.

COMMITTEEMEN WRATHY

Members of the legislative committee on judiciary and insurance, incensed over the action of the chairmen of the two committees in keeping bills submitted by the Governor on compulsory insurance a secret, threaten to force a change in the rules which allow chairmen to be designated by the president of the Senate and the speaker of the House. The plan talked of is to have chairmen elected by the committees.

JOBLESS BOARD'S OFFICES

The Governor's new unemployment committee will occupy rooms 334, 335 and 336 in the State House. These rooms were formerly occupied by the committee which was headed by James J. Phelan.

PEDONTI LEAVES TONIGHT

More than a score of friends left for New York last night to be at the pier when "Frankie" Pedonti, assistant secretary to Mayor Curley, sails from that city aboard the S. S. Conte Grande for a six-weeks' tour of Italy. "Frankie" goes to satisfy a life-long yearning to visit the birthplace of his parents in Messina. During his visit there he will have audiences with His Holiness, Pope Pius XI, Premier Mussolini and King Victor Emmanuel. Among those representing City Hall who will bid him "bon voyage," are Cornelius A. Reardon, secretary to Mayor Curley; Asst. Secys. "Jimmy" Tobin and "Bill" Duggan, and "Charlie" Manion, the mayor's chauffeur.

GLYNN FOR SHERIFF?

Although he has publicly announced that he has not determined as yet whether he will seek election as mayor or as sheriff, there seems to be little doubt that former Fire Commr. Theodore A. Glynn will seek to unseat Sheriff John A. Keliher next year. Not only is the popular "Teddy" making public appearances nightly, but in many places where he has appeared recently enthusiastic friends have introduced him is a candidate for the county office without contradiction from him.

John Russell, constable in the permit division of the street laying-out department in City Hall, plans to organize a bowling team there.

AIMEE NEAR COLLAPSE; AIDS ILL

of others, or by their own prayers. She asked them to come to the altar and testify to their cures.

About 25 walked forward, of whom four or five were men. Most were past middle age. Some spoke in such low tones that they could not be heard even with the amplifying system, and Mrs. Hutton repeated their testimonials.

One woman who had approached the altar with faltering steps at the first "healing service," earlier in the week walked on to the platform as if on parade, her steps firm and her head up. Aimee greeted her and she said she had been cured of heart trouble.

"Jesus is a great heart specialist," said the evangelist.

Others said they had been cured of tumors, cancer, meningitis, nephritis and other ailments. One man said a doctor told him he had to seek another climate. He prayed, remained here and suffered no more, he declared.

"The best climate is right around the cross," remarked Aimee.

She then told her own experience, saying that five doctors practically gave her up, but the members of her church in Los Angeles gathered outside the house and prayed, during a storm.

"The tide turned; the physicians said it was miraculous," she said.

"And last night I felt at the end of myself," she continued. "But each day the Lord seems to pour in new strength. Please pray that I may have strength, courage and inspiration to finish my Boston revival."

"OFFERING" IS MADE

Counting this afternoon's service, her revised program calls for seven meetings in the final three days, ending Sunday night.

She will then go to New York for rest and recreation and open her Philadelphia revival a week from Sunday.

Aimee advised those from out of town to remain in the Garden or nearby, on account of the rain.

An innovation at today's service was a "Pentecostal offering." She descended from the platform and stood there with her white Bible open in her hands. Many filed past her and laid offerings on the book. Some left paper money.

After the preliminaries, Aimee turned to those seeking her aid for the first time today and called them to the altar. It was then that her weariness overwhelmed her.

NEAR FAINT IN CAB

The evangelist almost fainted in the taxicab on the way to the Hotel Lenox last night, according to her husband. He said that after reaching her suite, she flung herself on a couch and remained there motionless for an hour.

She remained in bed until just before noon today and then got up and received newspapermen.

But she was "shaky" and after a brief 10-minute interview, asked to be excused and went back to bed.

It was the first time she had remained all forenoon in bed since her arrival here. In addition to her physical weariness, which showed in her eyes, where the usual brilliancy was lacking, she was nervously critical of her last night's sermon.

She said, however, that the big crowd had thrilled her and she would not be deterred from the whirlwind windup which she plans—seven meetings in three days, starting with today's "healing service," the second of her Boston revival.

Today's healing service represented a change in her original plans. She said she added this special service by request. Tonight there will be another alteration in her program as previously announced.

She will preach tonight on Samson's Haircut," which is her title for her sermon on Samson and Delilah.

When Aimee was asked about a dispatch from Los Angeles, disclosing that her mother, Mrs. Minnie ("Ma") Kennedy, would go on the vaudeville stage with her new husband, Guy Edward Hudson, the evangelist referred questioners to "Brother David" Hutton. He said:

"That's just the end of a long series of events which Mrs. Hutton doesn't care to discuss.

"She intends to go on preaching the Gospel with more zest than ever, trying to bring masses of people back to the faith of their fathers."

$750 A WEEK, THEY SAY.

"Ma" Kennedy's marriage with Guy Edward Hudson came after a series of quarrels with her daughter, eliminating the mother from Aimee's Temple. Mr. and Mrs. Hudson have signed for 13 weeks in vaudeville at a reputed salary of $750 a week each.

Posing as a traffic cop, "to pull sinners up to the curb and put them back on the right road," Aimee was in rare form before the enormous throng at the Garden last night, although her appeal was not as emotional as some of the previous ones.

Aimee wore a Los Angeles police badge on her blue cape. Later she put on a fire department badge. She said she is policewoman No. 100 in Los Angeles, a battalion fire chief there, too, and a captain of detectives at Pasadena.

A motorcycle was behind her on the altar and she punctuated her sermon by blowing the siren shrilly. It has been one of her sermons since she was arrested for speeding in Santa Monica.

"Adam was the first speeder," she said. "He got his ticket in the Garden of Eden. When God's siren starts, there's no way out. You might just as well pull in to the curb.

"The people in Noah's day were arrested for speeding—arrested by the flood. The people of Sodom and Gomorrah were pulled up to the curb by fire and brimstone falling from the heavens. Jonah was a speedster and the cyclone was God's siren. God sent the Black Maria in the form of a whale.

"Saul of Tarsus was arrested for speeding while riding the high horse of dignity.

"This is an age of speed, thundering, rocketing, hurtling, careening speed. Spendthrifts, joyriders, pleasure-seekers, joy-hunters, pursuers of popularity and those who think only of the joys of this world.

"I am glad God still has traffic officers, making arrests. I come with a message to speeding New England, to the speedsters here who are on the downward road."

World Speeding Past Traffic Lights of God, Says Aimee

Written Exclusively for the Boston Evening American

—By—

Aimee McPherson Hutton

More than 19 centuries ago the Son of God sat at a table with 12 men. Of that 12 there were 11 friends. One of them was Judas.

Yesterday I sat at a table with 12 men. One of them was a friend of God. The other 11 were agnostic questioners of the Truth.

The 12 youths with whom I sat yesterday were Harvard students. They were fine young men. They were keenly intelligent. They asked questions as to my faith and my belief in the tenets of God.

I may truthfully say that not in many years have I been so interested as while I was listening to their questions, answering them, feeling them out, trying to reach to their hearts where I know there was and is still a spark of the belief of their fathers.

Never was the fact more sharply brought to my attention that the 20th century finds the whole world speeding by danger signals, heading for it knows not where.

Here were 12 youths from one of the greatest educational institutions in the country and of that 12 only one was a professing Christian. I am not taking an unfair poll of the percentage of unpracticing Christians in our colleges today. I am merely pointing out that 50 years ago it would have been hard to find more than 11 such in an entire university.

NEED OF REVIVAL

These boys told me they were not the only agnostics at Harvard, not that I thought they were, but they emphasized their belief that a large percentage of our college youths of today are not only non-believing but are actually sceptical of the teachings as handed out by the churches.

If anything were needed to convince me further that the world is in dire need of a religious revival, that was it. The scene is one which will remain long in my memory. The world is hurtling along, passing the cross and the church, the traffic signals of life. Headlong millions are speeding by the warning signals, too busy to think about God.

PULL IN TO CURB!

How are we going to stop these reckless speeders on the highways of life? If the churches are failing what is left. I repeat the churches and every evangelist in the world had better act quickly before we have one of those grade crossing tragedies which in this case will be more horrible even than having entire families blotted out in auto-train collisions.

Pull in to the curb, you speeders. Let us see your papers. Have you your license and registration signed by the Great Registrar?

Pull in to the curb you college students. You're charged with operating under the influence. That's the expression used by police, only in this case, it's not under the influence of liquor. These fine, clean boys, seekers after the truth need teachers who will lead them along the straight path to Salvation and remove them from the influence of Evil which at present directs their vehicles.

Pull in to the curb, world. You've passed a string of red lights, red with the blood of those who have not heeded. You parents have gone past the danger signals your sons and daughters waved.

Pull in to the curb every one of you and get out of this 20th century whirl

GASOLINE FOUND IN FIRED HOME

The discovery, according to police, that floors and cellar of the 2½-story dwelling of Abraham Elkins, Shirley st., Winthrop, were drenched in gasoline was made today when fire broke out on the second floor. The damage was estimated at $2000.

State police were notified and an investigation was also started by local authorities. The Elkins family were away at the time.

Unaware of the absence of the family, Morris Rosenberg of 375 Shirley st. entered the house to assist them and was partly overcome by smoke. He was taken out by firemen.

KUBITSKY WILL BE 'CABOT' TO ALL WHO CALL

change my Cabot name now, because he told his lawyer to tell me to come down to Mr. Cabot's office and he would punch my nose.

"You see, it was this way. About three months ago I talked with the telephone company over the phone and told them to put a telephone in my house under the name Samuel Kabot—with a K, you know.

"That was because all my friends call me 'Chick Kabot' from the time I was in grammar school. Well, when the phone book came out, it was Samuel Cabot—with a C. It looked good, too.

"Then, the first thing I knew I got a letter from lawyers, Ropes, Gray, Boyden & Perkins, telling me to go down to their office, quick.

WOULD BE "CUPID"

"I saw a Mr. Daly and a Mr. Richardson and right away they told me I shouldn't use this name Samuel Cabot, but instead I should change it to Samuel Kubit. If I didn't, Mr. Daly told me, Mr. Cabot wanted me to go down to his office and he would punch my nose.

"'Kubit?' I said to them. 'Give me a bow and arrow and I'll pose as Cupid, maybe.'"

Samuel Cabot, manufacturer of paints and coal tar products at 141 Milk st., who objects strenuously to Kubitsky being listed as Samuel Cabot just above the real Samuel Cabot, declared today:

"There have been Cabots for five generations and the name is an honored one. This Kubitsky is some man I have never even seen, but I think when the case comes up in Superior Court he will revert back to Kubitsky."

'IT'S CABOT AND I LIKE IT!'

"Sure, it's worth a punch in the nose. Cabot is a good name, and I like it!" So says Samuel Kubitsky, of Nightingale st., Dorchester, who has stirred up a furore by having his phone number listed under the sacred name of Samuel Cabot. He says a blueblood of the same name has promised to poke his nose for usurping the cognomen, but he declares he'll stay a Cabot, poke or no poke. (Staff photo.)

$25,000 Bond Issue Sought in Wakefield

As a result of the overdraft on the highway funds in Wakefield, which has resulted in the laying off of many of the highway workers because the funds are now spent, the town is considering an emergency bond issue for $25,000 to aid unemployed. It is probable a special town meeting will be called early in November.

MOBS ATTACK CATHOLICS IN SPAIN

Madrid, Oct. 16 (AP)—Anti-Catholic riots in which injuries were numerous broke out at several points today as the cabinet considered a measure which would empower provincial governors to declare martial law at their discretion.

At Barcelona a group of Catholics was leaving the cathedral after a memorial service for Don Jaime de Bourbon, late pretender to the Spanish throne. Across the street a group of anti-Catholics hooted and jeered.

There was shooting before the police broke up the disturbance and several persons were wounded. Arrests were numerous.

At Valladolid a group of women was distributing pamphlets supporting the Jesuit order. A mob of anti-Catholics surrounded them and they were roughly treated before police arrived. Eighteen persons were hurt there.

Pope to Say Prayer for Spanish People

Vatican City, Oct. 16 (AP)—Pope Pius XI will offer a prayer for the Spanish people at St. Peter's Cathedral on Sunday, October 25, he informed Mgr. Tedeschini, the papal nuncio to Spain, by telegraph today.

But first of all . . . good coal, selected from Pennsylvania's most famous mines, with such care that Burns Bros. are considered "the most fussy buyers in the business."

"Impossible" they told us! "West-of-England worsteds at such low prices? It can't be done." That's all we needed to get us started . . . A cablegram—and the next ship brought us a grand lot of those out-of-the-ordinary weaves which have made West-of-England worsteds world famous . . . Then we commissioned a group of master American weavers to reproduce them for us. Thousands of yards came from their looms — all with an added bit of rugged Yankee quality; and a typical touch of Yankee thrift . . . And then the expert tailors in our own factory went to work with a vengeance. "Impossible" is a word they don't know! They gave us what we wanted — two trouser suits in rare West-of-England weaves, coloring, and style—at absolutely unheard-of prices . . . CHILDREN'S DIMES TO FINANCE THE DRYS

By GILBERT SELDES

HOW DOES IT HAPPEN that for fifty years the sentimental prohibitionists and temperance workers had all the common sense, political skill and business acumen, while the hard-headed liquor interests acted like American diplomats at a peace conference? It is true that since prohibition became an officially accepted legend in America the positions have occasionally been reversed; power went to the heads of the drys and they have made egregious errors. Yet once in a while the tactics of the two opposing parties show that the believers in drinking haven't yet caught up with the disbelievers in skill and guile.

GILBERT SELDES

* * *

Candy From Babies

The latest, very sinister and entirely typical move of the prohibitionists is a scheme to enlist the young; the details are vague, but I gather that young America will be permitted to contribute a dime (the tenth part of a dollar) to the Cause, and will receive in exchange a button or a card or something. It looks innocent; everything the temperance workers did in the 1890's also looked innocent, but was full of craftiness. It is a simple idea; to many people it is an offensive idea because it obviously is bringing pressure on the immature, who haven't the mental equipment to resist unfair tactics. Yet, politically speaking, it is sound; it is far-sighted; it raises a bulwark now against the disruptions of the future. Why do the wets never think of anything as simple as that?

A Lesson From the Past

The lesson of prohibition has been written enough times; but I doubt whether it has been studied. The movement had two or three phases which needn't be detailed. Only one important change has to be noted—when temperance changed to prohibition the movement turned from morals to business. And it was only after prohibition became a business that it began to conquer. Yet for thirty years the men who knew business, the brewers and distillers and the bankers who financed them, not only failed to meet the change in tactics, actually did not recognize it.

They still thought of the attack as a moral exercise indulged in by some Middle-Western middle-aged women who pinned ribbons on round-faced little children and sent petitions to Congress. They had seen the Republican Party go down to its first defeat since the Civil War and furiously accused Frances Willard and her W. C. T. U. of breaking up the solidarity of the North, of attacking the party which had high moral ideals; but they did not know that the movement against the saloon had entered politics to stay, had become an economic and social force. They kept on believing that the temperance workers wanted to reform a few drinkers; and all the time the Anti-Saloon League was attacking not the drinker, but the drink.

I believe that Frances Willard was, next to Mark Hanna, the most able politician of her time, and that the masters of the Anti-Saloon League were by far the most skillful propagandists of our century (including the war years). But even they might have failed if it had not been for the blindness of the brewers. Officially we have no more brewers, but the anti-drys are still myopic. Some of them want nullification, some repeal, some revision; few of them seem willing to face the obvious fact that they have to meet pressure with pressure.

They know perfectly that the Congressmen who voted for the amendment aren't particularly enthusiastic about it; they know that no vote will be recorded against the amendment until Senators are certain that they will not lose their seats if they vote wet. All that is necessary, then, is to give guarantees to our politicians; or, in other words, win wet voters. Instead of this, nearly all the drinking interests are proving that prohibition doesn't work, or that rum-runners shoot innocent bystanders, or that the Scandinavian countries are happier with liquor than without.

Meanwhile the prohibitionists, who apparently intend to keep on fighting for some time to come, are getting a dime from children and somehow proving that legalized beer would not put men to work or use up grain; they have even suggested that if the breweries resumed and took on men, the makers of soft drinks would have to shut up shop. The idea that beer drinkers are now drinking soda (or, in fact, anything but beer) is silly, but it is only silly to the drinkers; and the drys are appealing to children.

Movie Madness

The movies are going mad, I am happy to report, and are making money out of their lunacies. Twice last week I went to see films at late showings and both times, leaving the theaters at midnight, saw crowds still streaming in for the final show. One was "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford," in which Jimmie Durante is featured (he ought to be starred soon), and the other is "Monkey Business," with the four Marx brothers. The two are not to be compared, because the first has a plot and a love story to consider, and the second has only to make endless opportunities for the mad brothers, but both are further steps in the breakdown of moving picture habits.

Durante is the triumph of a personality. The excited haste with which he moves, the spluttering speech, the enormous, kindly grin, the terrific activity, all come out of the night clubs and suffer not at all on the screen; it is surprising that whereas he lost at least a quarter of his hold on the stage, he preserves all his quality when filmed. The stuff he has to do is moderately funny; the way he does it is magnificent.

* * *

The Marxes are old-timers in comparison; this is their third full-length picture, the other two being filmed musical shows. They do not change; they are still the same characters, doing more or less the same things; but they are enormously inventive, and this time have had the assistance of the gifted lunatic Perelman, who can write as bad puns as Groucho Marx can utter.

The Marxes make fun of everything, and perhaps the best scene in "Monkey Business" is when they make fun of the pompous rigmarole of getting off a transatlantic liner. Everyone who has ever arrived in America knows how irritating officials are and how unnecessary the discomforts have become. The Marxes go mad on the subject. All four of them try to get by with Maurice Chevalier's passport and prove their identity by singing (the silent Harpo has a phonograph record on his back). And when this does not work, they go into a fury, tearing up official papers, stamping everything in sight with official seals, and altogether making monkeys of red-tape authorities. It is a grand scene—and it is grand because it does what all of us have always wanted to do.

INDICT BISHOP CANNON IN FUND PROBE

Since the grand jury took up the case, the bishop, in one of his public statements, called attention that Dist. Atty. Rover was a Catholic.

Rover put the case in the hands of an assistant, John J. Wilson, who has stated that he is a Republican, a Protestant and a Dry.

WOMEN ON JURY

Asst. Dist. Atty. Wilson said he would press for an early trial. Bond for the indicted pair was placed at $1000 each.

The grand jury is composed of three women and 20 men.

[illegible] was reached after a [illegible] inquiry, during which a score of witnesses testified. With few exceptions they were the same witnesses who appeared in the Senate campaign funds committee investigation of the bishop's activities.

The committee also was given evidence that former Senator Joseph Frelinghuysen of New Jersey contributed $10,000.

No accounting was made of this sum in the bishop's report.

TINKHAM LED ATTACK

The pair was indicted on 10 counts. The indictments also cited eight overt acts.

Miss Burroughs and Dr. [illegible] Sydney Peters, secretary of the organization [illegible] at Newport News, Va., were [illegible] but refused to testify. Dr. Peters, however, was a witness before the [illegible]

The Senate investigation was [illegible] by a [illegible] attack by Senator [illegible] Democrat, Virginia. Charges that the clergyman violated the corrupt practices [illegible] on the floor of the House by Representative Tinkham, Republican [illegible] who wrote Atty. Gen. Mitchell on November [illegible] demanding grand jury action.

Tinkham's charges were founded on evidence secured in the Senate lobby investigation directed by Senator Caraway, Democrat of Arkansas.

Bishop Cannon on four occasions has questioned the right of any investigation of his political activities. He sought unsuccessfully an injunction against the Nye committee's inquiry from the District Supreme Court, saying he would welcome a grand jury investigation.

The grand jury today reported that Bishop Cannon and Miss Burroughs "unlawfully and feloniously did conspire, combine, confederate and agree together, and with divers other persons unknown to commit divers, to wit, four, offenses against the United States—that is to say, the four willfully-committed offenses on the part of said Ada L. Burroughs, as treasurer of said political committee."

The indictments were returned nearly two hours before the regular time set by custom at the District of Columbia Supreme Court. Three women were on the jury.

The indictments recited the law requiring reports of campaign contributions at certain dates. Miss Burroughs was indicted separately for failure to report the [illegible] contributions on each of these dates.

Bishop Cannon was [illegible] on the ground that he unlawfully did aid [illegible] and abet, counsel, [illegible] induce and procure, and advise, [illegible] commission of the offenses.

Among the overt acts in the "conspiracy to violate the law" the jurors called attention to a telegram sent by Bishop Cannon to Jameson on February 12, 1929, some time after the election.

Up to that time the bishop had made no reports of the Jameson contributions but Jameson had just informed a Senate committee of his donations to Cannon as head of the anti-Smith Democrats. Cannon's telegram to Jameson on that date said:

"Tried talk long distance New York, but office closed Lincoln's Birthday. After careful examination records, think statement should be 'paid headquarters committee anti-Smith Democrats $17,300, paid Virginia committee anti-Smith Democrats $48,000, making total $65,300.'

"This will correspond exactly with our official reports. Call Lincoln 2948 Washington any time after 8:30 until midnight tonight, when leaving for New York. Sailing Thursday."

MADE LATE REPORT

Subsequently, but after the [illegible] allowed by the law, Miss Burroughs made a report to the Clerk of the House detailing the $[illegible] contribution.

The 66-year-old Southern Methodist churchman became a national political figure when he headed the Virginia anti-Smith Democratic committee. In that campaign the traditionally Democratic State [illegible] up on the Republican [illegible] support of Herbert Hoover.

During and after the campaign he was assailed both within and without the church. He was accused of opposing Smith because the latter was a Roman Catholic. Senator Glass of Virginia described Bishop Cannon as "the Methodist Pope."

It was discovered [illegible] that Bishop Cannon had [illegible] through a New York brokerage house which later became bankrupt. His foes charged him with gambling.

In May, 1930, he was summoned before the general conference of the Southern Methodist Church to answer charges centering about his political activity and stock market dealings.

After he had faced the conference with tears in his eyes, confessed that he had made a mistake in his stock market venture and promised not to do it again, he was exonerated.

Returning immediately to Washington he was summoned before the Senate [illegible] committee and questioned about $65,300 that [illegible] had given him for the Virginia political campaign.

Walking on a crutch, because of an attack of arthritis, the churchman refused to answer questions and hobbled from the room. Some of the committee members talked of citing him for contempt, but no action was taken.

Bishop Cannon went to London in July, 1930, and married his former secretary, Mrs. Helen Hawley McCallum.

FILED $500,000 SUIT

Before going abroad he filed a $500,000 slander suit against Representative Tinkham as a result of their political clashes.

In the last few days Senator Glass and Bishop Cannon have been hurling charges and countercharges against each other.

September 18, 1928, $10,000.
September 28, $10,000.
October 9, $10,000.
October 16, $5000.
October 16, $5000.
October 19, $18,000.
December 6, $4300.
January 14, 1929, $3000.

The grand jury took no notice of contributions of $41,300 which Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, former Republican senator of New Jersey, has stated he gave to the bishop. Senate experts who have studied the case have stated there is no record of a report of this contribution.

Cannon "Expected" to Be Indicted, He Says

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 16 (INS)— Bishop James Cannon [illegible] Methodist churchman [illegible] session here today with the College of Bishops of the M. E. Church South, received the news of his indictment by a District of Columbia grand jury with unruffled equanimity.

Informed of the indictment, the bishop said:

"I do not wish to be disturbed until the College of Bishops is adjourned."

The bishop, however, anticipating his indictment, commented on it in an address here last night as follows:

"I expect to be indicted because of the attitude of the Roman Catholic district attorney at Washington. He refused to permit me to appear before the grand jury and called only one of four witnesses I suggested.

"They expect to [illegible] me by the indictment process and hope to destroy my influence in this manner.

"I waived immunity and answered questions for the district attorney for five hours. The testimony covered 125 pages. When the single witness appeared before the grand jury in my behalf the district attorney's first act was to thrust the waiver under his nose.

"I wrote the district attorney three times about the witnesses in my behalf. He didn't answer any of them but called my attorney and told him the investigation was closed."

Atty. [illegible] H. McNe[illegible], Cannon's counsel, issued this statement:

"Bishop Cannon for more than 30 years has been the leader in a series of battles for civic and moral reform in the United States. I have too much faith in the integrity of America's jurors and courts to believe that they will fail to find the truth in their deliberations.

"Never in this decade has one man out of public office had such influence on public opinion as Bishop Cannon. I believe this influence has been tremendously beneficial to moral principles."

Puffed Sleeves in Fashion's Front Rank

By ANN ARDEN

PUFFED SLEEVES are [illegible] with us.

* * *

FIRST WE have the little short puffed sleeves. They make the wider shoulders prominent and bring out the character of the new silhouette into decided lines. Then there are the longer puffed sleeves that reach the elbows and [illegible] the [illegible] of the dress as a whole.

* * *

DELIGHTFULLY quaint is the gown of Burgundy red [illegible] velvet pictured. The skirt is fairly full, and instep length. The crushed girdle gives a high waistline narrowing to belt at back, run through buckle of brilliants.

* * *

THE ROUND neck is deeper in back, and the puff sleeves are banded through the center with a narrow band of white fur. The old-fashioned gold chain, and pendant locket set in black enamel seem singularly appropriate to our newly romantic fashions.

Meet the MAN you want to be

THE modern world offers its prizes to the man who stays young. It isn't your age that counts so much. It's your physical condition.

Your health, in the next ten years, depends upon how you take care of yourself today. There are thousands of men in the world who are handicapped in business by ill-health — frequently because they neglected constipation.

Constipation often brings headaches, backaches, listlessness. It takes the pep out of your working hours — dulls the keen edge of your ambition.

You need not suffer from this condition. Try eating a delicious cereal: Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient to prevent and relieve both temporary and recurring constipation. ALL-BRAN will help you keep fit — unless you have intestinal trouble not relieved in this way — and then you should see your physician.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies two things needed to overcome constipation in a natural way: "Bulk," which exercises the intestinal muscles; Vitamin B, which promotes a healthy intestinal tract. How much better this is than abusing your system with pills and drugs — so often habit-forming.

ALL-BRAN provides iron for building the blood. Try it today. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

GREATER BOSTON NEWS

THIS IS LIFE

LACK OF JOB SECURITY FATAL, BUT LABOR IS STILL UNMOVED

By ROBERT E. ROGERS

ROBERT E. ROGERS

DOCTORS CHARLES MAYO and George Crile are telling us that emotion shortens life, that fear, worry, anxiety and other uncontrolled emotions are causing deaths every day. The same issue of the newspaper tells us that out in Vancouver the American Federation of Labor, in annual conference, votes, although after stormy discussion, against one of the few economic measures which might seriously and practically cut down the gross amount of fear, worry and anxiety in American life. That is, state regulated unemployment insurance, which a morning paper [illegible] calls "the dole."

Man has an inveterate habit of carrying his various ideas in water-tight compartments. The social and economic dispute will go on, probably without any mention of the opinion of these doctors, as if it had no bearing on the matter in hand. And yet, when you come right down to it, has anything of more fundamental importance been said on the whole subject? Our existing economic and social system automatically, and apparently unescapably, produces booms and depressions, the violence of competition and speculation, anxiety, worry, and the fear of losses, unemployment and deprivation.

* * *

Life's Span Lessened 12 Years

These emotions result in serious, often incurable, diseases: goiter, diabetes, stomach ulcers, high blood pressure, heart disease. These diseases are increasing and are not being brought under control. They are limiting man's span of life to 58 instead of the scriptural 70.

There is the proposition. Presumably any social system exists to furnish the average man with a life as long and as healthy as is reasonably possible, as secure as is possible, and as happy. It does not exist to uphold the theories of Adam Smith, Ricardo, John Stuart Mill and Congressmen Dingley and McKinley. Just as, in the words of Mr. Justice Holmes, it is not the business of the Constitution to enact Herbert Spencer's "Social Statics" in legislation, so it is not the busines of a business system to prove the righteousness of individualism, the folly of socialism and the wickedness of communism. Yet the question is often discussed as if these were the important points.

The United States developed under the stimulus of the notion that individualism, laissez faire, free competition and the like, developed, better than any other system, the qualities of initiative, energy, ambition, all-round competence, and civic responsibility. Undoubtedly it did in the past. Undoubtedly it does in the present to a certain extent, barring the quality of civic responsibility, in which the average business man of today is conspicuously lacking.

* * *

Man's Job at Whim of Fate

But the hey-day of the theory was in an America where resources were still unparalleled, opportunity still great, competition comparatively small, and where the community was still sufficiently self-contained to make it reasonably sure that even if the outside world crashed, the provident community would still have food, shelter, firewood and materials for clothing. The American had all the advantages of individualism and few of the disadvantages.

Today this is obviously no longer true. No community is self-sufficient. No man's job or living is secure. Upsets and crises half a continent or half a world away may throw him out of his job. In the big cities he almost certainly does not own his own home; he has no vegetable patch, no wood lot, no store of provisions. Nothing stands between him and suffering but a job, which may be lost to him in a day as a result of forces over which he has no more control than he has over the climate of the moon.

Charity workers estimate that an enormous proportion of the workers of our country live on the sheer edge of dependence, with only a week's wages between them and the wolf. The physicians tell us that certain diseases, which seem to be the product of a highly complex and overstrained civilization, are steadily increasing and seem, at present, out of control. And now Drs. Mayo and Crile suggest that these diseases, which are causing unnecessarily early deaths, are due to the sheer unrelieved pressure of worry and fear.

Labor Stands for Old Order

Hate, anger and jealousy likewise take their toll. But these may be controlled under a reasonable ethical system. No man can excuse himself for giving up himself to such tearers down of health and life. But the emotions of chronic anxiety as to whether the job will last, the gnawing worry of unemployment, the stark fear of starvation are not under man's control. And the silly, thoughtless optimism which our professional business boosters seek to inculcate in us only brings the black reality into bolder relief.

Obviously, the only permanent means of relieving this chronic state of uncertainty, of dissipating this wolf at the door of our system, is by another system, which will scrap out traditional and out-of-date individualism, this merely traditional ideal, and will substitute for it some plan which will promise at least reasonable security. It may be contributory unemployment insurance; it may be contributory old age pensions; it may be Mr. Swope's plan. It may be some plan not yet devised.

The A. F. of L. says in effect that it wishes to continue the present system, regardless of the toll it takes out of the lives of its workers. It demands that the government pour out billions to tide over the present system, knowing full well that even prosperity will not eliminate the causes of these worry diseases. Its officials fear lest any new system will affect the closed shop. They fear lest they shall have to change their traditional policies, formulated to meet the needs of an age that is gone. A system which condemns the workers of the world to worry and fear is advantageous insofar as it strengthens the power of the unions. And the A. F. of L. is still thinking in terms of the power of the unions. In the midst of conditions that render nugatory their traditional policies, that is all their "statesmanship" amounts to.

THIEF TRAPPED IN PARK SQ.

A bold daylight robbery of ten camel hair coats, valued at $980, from the [illegible] Boylston st. [illegible] through the Back Bay business district today, and the arrest in Park Sq. of Everett Salter, 23, of Dale st., Roxbury.

The coats, thrown into a Boylston st. doorway near Berkeley st., were recovered a short time before the capture of Salter by two traffic officers as he stepped into a taxicab.

According to police, Salter entered the store, seized the coats and fled pursued by the manager, J. G. Reed, shouting "Stop thief." The chase was taken up by Special Officer Ryan and Traffic Officer Gallagher, a crowd following.

Salter fled down Berkeley st., through Providence st. and into Park sq. where Traffic Officers McCall and Gallagher caught him.

AUTO RATE PLAN ATTACKED AS 'BIG GOUGE'

Is Written by Insurance Companies and Sponsored by Ely, Is Goodwin's Charge

Declaring that Gov. Ely's proposed amendments to the Compulsory Automobile Insurance law were written by the insurance companies, Frank A. Goodwin, former motor vehicle registrar and chairman of the Finance Commission, today delivered a scathing attack on the plans set forth by the governor.

The bill, which includes deductable policies, elimination of guest rider liability and the demerit system, would bring a reign of terror for the car owners of the State, Goodwin said.

LOOKS BAGGY TO HIM

Ely's special session of the Legislature, called to discuss possible changes in the law, was included in Goodwin's attack. He said he was beginning to think that the session was called for the sole purpose of filling the pockets of the insurance companies.

"It is most extraordinary," Goodwin said, "that the Governor of the Commonwealth should sponsor a bill that without question was written by the insurance companies for the insurance companies, and which is against the best interests of all our people.

POCKETS MADE DEEPER

"This is not Gov. Ely's bill; it is for the most part word for word, the same as Senate bill 518, designed by Henry Parkman last year, except that whatever changes have been made are in the interests of the insurance companies.

"The Parkman bill was so bad that the Senate killed it by an overwhelming vote.

"I shall demand a public hearing from the bill so that the people may know what the leaders, Republican and Democrat alike, are attempting to pass out to them as painlessly as possible."

Venice Has 3 Beaux, She Tells Nolly

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Long struggle to learn the methods of social charm convinces Venice Muir that she cannot gain popularity. Venice has copper-colored hair, a lovely Rosetti face and full, soft grace. But her eyes reveal her unsureness of herself, and her mouth is immature and wistful. At the [illegible] party Venice sees once more she has neither lightness nor appeal and the knowledge makes her nervous and dull. Lola Gaither, one of Venice's two real friends, comes to lunch the day after the party. "What makes one popular?" she asks Lola. There are various types of popularity, Lola tells her.

There was a [illegible] never been discovered. You can guess at the ingredients but you don't know the proportions."

"Phew! Good girl. Let's let the discussion rest on that brilliant note. You always do tax my feeble intellect sooner or later. But, Venice dear, there really isn't any other game for girls except the society whirligig. Don't fool yourself. Courses and jobs and charities are only balms for the unpopular.

VAN ALLEN WILL AIDS SCHOLARS

A trust fund for scholars at Syracuse University will be established under the will of the late Dr. William Harman Van Allen, former rector of the Church of the Advent, it was revealed today when the will was filed for probate in Suffolk Superior court.

A total of $100,000 out of an estate of $[illegible] was bequeathed to the university for the establishment of the fund, which will be known as the Van Allen scholars.

Successful candidates to the scholarship will receive a small silver copy of the family crest bearing the inscription "Fo Tout Fidele," the will states.

Dr. Van Allen died in Germany in August as the result of a stroke.

Three years ago he resigned his rectorship of the Brimmer Street Church after 27 years of service. The resignation was tendered, he said at the time, because he "wanted to get away from the atmosphere of the church."

Gifts of $1000 each are given to Dr. John Lincoln Ames of Chestnut st., Beacon Hill, Joseph H. Hunting of Charles st., Mrs. William G. Seymour of Norwell, Mrs. Virginia Hill of Palmyra, N. Y., Mrs. Annette Crane of Scottsburg, N. Y., Mrs. Elizabeth J. Holland of Chicago, Mrs. Cecily Eleanore Cartwright of England, Mrs. Edith Scott Kiehle of Minneapolis.

A portrait of himself and his mother were also willed to Syracuse University. The Old Colony Trust Company is named as sole executor.

LACK OF RADIO HIT AS AID TO BANDITS

Failure to equip police with radio was blamed today by City Councillor Israel Ruby for the escape of two gunmen who held up a girl telephone operator in a daring raid on Forest Hills Hospital last night and robbed her of $154.

"Not only was the holdup an outrage," said Councillor Ruby, "but a second outrage was the escape of the men even after the number of their automobile was telephoned to police from the hospital, where nurses obtained it.

NURSES VIEW SUSPECT

"If police cruising cars were equipped with radio and this number had been flashed to them, the bandit car undoubtedly would have been stopped in flight to Dover st. bridge, where the car was found—empty.

"The only suspect the police were able to seize upon then was a man who they declare was drunk. You don't even need radio for that."

Four nurses of the Forest Hills Hospital went to police headquarters today, but failed to identify John J. Lyons of Brighton as one of the holdup pair. Lyons is declared by police to be the owner of the car whose number was taken down at the hospital, and which was found abandoned on Dover st. bridge.

In a further attempt to identify the two bandits, the four nurses, Marion Robinson, night supervisor, Ethel Simes, Marietta Wilson and Margaret Johnston viewed photographs in the rogues' gallery.

SISTER QUESTIONED

Lyons was arrested, charged with drunkenness, near the Wiggin Terminal, South Boston, when police went there after a report that three men were trying to break into the building. His companions escaped.

Meanwhile, other police, checking up on the registration of the auto, which had been noted outside the hospital by an alert cab driver, went to Lyons' home in Brighton. Sergt. William J. Harrow and Special Officer Daniel McDonnell questioned his sister, and she told them he was going around with some South Boston men and doing considerable drinking.

Harrow called the Athens st. station and learned that Lyons was under arrest there. He was being held on a charge of drunkenness.

ROBBERY WELL PLANNED

Miss Martha Hudson, telephone operator, who was on duty at the hospital switchboard during the robbery, and several nurses who saw the men in the hospital, went to headquarters to make the attempt at identification.

Police say that Lyons' car had not been reported as stolen at the time of the robbery and Sergt. Harrow said early today that the auto was not reported stolen at the time he and Special Officer McDonnell found it abandoned.

HOP OUT OF BED AND DRINK WATER IN THE MORNING

Italian Doctors Working Wonders on Headache and Stomach Sufferers With Simple, Internal Bathing

Why is it that eight out of every ten people today are being made miserable, unhappy and inefficient by constant headaches?

Italian doctors startled the world by giving plain effervescent water before breakfast as the remedy. A homely treatment, but effective sometimes beyond belief. A form of intestinal bathing that makes anemic-looking, pasty-faced, headachy and stomach-acidity people take on new life, new appearance and new health.

The way the treatment works is on the same principle of washing out the intestines every morning before breakfast just like you wash dirt off your face and hands. For just as it is necessary to clean ashes from a furnace before a fire burns bright and clear, so it is necessary to wash out the stomach BEFORE food goes into it.

Otherwise you most likely cause a bad condition by mixing the food you eat with ptomaine-like accumulations in the stomach that virtually poison the fresh foods you put in it.

For that reason, every man or woman—whether sick or well—is advised to drink each morning BEFORE BREAKFAST, one-half glass of water with two tablespoons of ordinary Italian brioschi effervescent in it, followed by a large glass of plain water. That's the whole Italian treatment tens of thousands of people today are crediting with near miracles in the relief of constant headaches, sour stomach, acidity, constipation, "bilious" attacks and general lassitude and debility.

The Italian brioschi effervescent to put with water can be obtained in large cans at any store for a few cents. The way to pronounce the word is Bree-os-ky—ordinary Italian brioschi. A few days of it will suffice to make most anyone a crank on the subject of intestinal bathing.

Stalwart Crimson Cohorts as They Embarked for West Point to Battle Army Mule Tomorrow

OIL FARM BRIBE CHARGE PROBED

The battle against the erection of a 3,000,000-gallon oil farm in Saugus, was carried to the State House today when Atty.-Gen. Warner was asked to investigate a charge the officials of the Pines River Terminal Co. had "influence at the State House."

The demand for an investigation of this remark, alleged to have been made at a meeting of the citizens of Saugus, on Tuesday night, was made by Representative Carroll.

The hearing broke up when J. Wallace Mahoney of Revere charged that the Saugus selectmen had "probably been taken care of."

Receiver for Frankini

Alexander K. Williams of Scituate, engineer and contractor, today was named in Supreme Court as receivers of Frankini Bros. Co. Inc., Medford contractors, on petition of the Boston Sand & Gravel Co. The petition was filed "to protect the finances of the Frankini Co."

'HATE' CHARGE WINS DIVORCE

"My husband told me he was sick of living with me, that he wanted to be free to go with other girls, and that he hated me."

Mrs. Agnes C. Carroll of Woburn, thus testified before Judge Charles N. Harris in Middlesex Probate court today and won an uncontested divorce decree.

Another uncontested decree was given Mrs. Florence Luke of Lynn st., Malden, who said her husband Charles had repeatedly tried to choke her, and threatened to kill her. At one time, she testified he took her wedding and engagement rings and pawned them. They were married in New York in 1930 and he left her on June 25, 1931 she said.

Twelve other divorces were granted.

FASTER-WORKING NEW SOAP

Lightens housework—speeds washing—gives whiter washings

● There is one word to remember if you would do washing efficiently and successfully. The word is "suds"!

Richer suds make all the difference in the world in washing. They save your strength and speed your work.

Soap experts have learned this, and now, the makers of Ivory Soap bring you their new soap discovery—Oxydol, a new-type soap with marvelous sudsing power.

Women everywhere are finding Oxydol a wonderful aid to easier washing and housework. It is a real soap sensation.

Oxydol is different from other soaps. It is supercharged (with pure, rich soap) for 50% more suds than other soaps in granulated form. That's why it instantly yields its live, rich suds which outwash and outlast all others.

Soap-wise women choose the soap that does most work

Soaps can either work hard for you or shirk on the job. Oxydol does more of the hard work for you than any soap you've ever used. Thus, it saves you time and energy.

As you have surely found, weak, old-type soaps can't get things really clean because they soon fizzle away to watery suds, which have no cleansing power.

So remember this, whenever you buy soap, it's suds—not soap—you are really paying for. When you buy Oxydol you are getting the greatest suds bargain ever offered.

If the suds fizzle and fall in the washtub, the dirt falls back too—back to fasten itself right in your clothes. How many gray, streaky washings are caused by this?

Soaks clothes white

There is no need for tiresome rubbing when you wash in rich Oxydol suds. For Oxydol soaks clothes snowy white. Its richer suds never stop working until every last particle of dirt is completely routed.

Softens hard water

Even the stubbornest hard water holds no terror for Oxydol. It gives the same rich, live, extra suds in hard or soft water. And don't forget, even the softest water is hardened the minute you put soiled clothes or dishes into it.

Great for dishes—easier on hands too

Dirty dishes are spotlessly bright and clean in a flash with rich Oxydol suds. Just dip, then scald, then drain, and dry without wiping, if you prefer. There will be no clinging film.

And your hands will be left so smooth and pleasant that you'll know it's the right soap for even your most delicate clothes.

Try Oxydol today. It's a wonderful household helper. Ask your grocer for the big-sized orange and blue package. You'll thank the day you learned its name.

THE VOICE OF Broadway

By Louis Sobol

A Little o' This, a Little o' That!

Over at the Waldorf-Astoria, the snooty Waldorf-Astoria, they have the nearest thing to a gigolo. A sleek-haired, good-looking chap named Sandro Rosati. Don't misunderstand me. The handsome Rosati isn't being paid to dance with women or flatter them or go out with them. He's a singer with the Myer Davis orchestra, but after he concludes his numbers he sits down at a table and the women flock over and he talks to them. He converses in five languages, English, Italian, Spanish, Hungarian and French, and because of his engagements abroad he knows society dowagers and debs from each of the countries in which those languages are spoken. He rarely mentions it but he's quite proud of the fact that his father, the famous Rosati, was the vocal coach of Gigli and other famous operatic stars.

Society Versus Stage!

The Roger (Hannah Williams) Kahns have an idea that they're definitely through with stage work. How it will work out I can't tell, but the situation at present appears to be this: Papa Otto Kahn, having permitted his ambitious offspring to play around with orchestras and stage ventures, has come to the conclusion that the lad has had his fling and ought to settle down to his proper place in the social whirl. What goes for Roger must necessarily go for Hannah, it seems, and there's where there may be difficulty, for the lively lass has the stage yearn instilled in her and that's a yearn, you'll find, that's hard to throttle. Incidentally, although young Kahn admitted the truth of all the foregoing, he also made a confession. "Of course," he said, "if someone should come along with a tremendous offer—a lot of money—well, I don't know. It might be hard to refuse." So figure it out for yourself.

The Boy Wants Snow!

A lad in whom we take particular pride is Russ Columbo, the most recent of the so-called radio sensations. We were the first to mention his possibilities after hearing him sing one night at Con Conrad's studio. He's made good since and shortly, I understand, will sign a new radio contract that may net him five grand a week. As we've told you several times, Conrad keeps him on a daily allowance. It used to be $2 a day, but since has been increased to $5, and on occasions Columbo has been able even to get as much as $10 out of the financially conservative Conrad. Columbo and a pretty Ziegfeld princess, Dorothy Dell, are very much in love. It's serious business to them because neither wishes to interfere with the other's career. So last week they made an agreement. Under no circumstances are they to see each other more than three times a week. Having come to this decision, the Ziegfeldear turned to the soft-voiced crooner and chirped softly: "Russ, tell me something. If you had your wish, what would you like the most in the world?" Columbo pondered heavily. Finally his eyes lighted up. "Something I've never seen," he answered sentimentally, "a real snowstorm."

Trade Note!

Most of us pay on the average of from $10 to $15 for a pair of shoes when we can afford to buy shoes at all. Our women folks, of course, pay considerably more. But at that even for them $25 a pair is a respectable price to pay and if you're like me, you'll squawk if they pay more.

So it is with considerable amazement and even perturbation that we learn that some of our wealthier citizenry wouldn't think of having footgear at such low prices, insisting upon paying from $75 to as high as $500 the pair. In fact, there's a cobbler in town by the name of Nihleen who caters only to the wealthy and whose lowest assessment for a pair of leather kicks is $50. That gives you some idea.

O Hum!

George Lottman, who keeps his clients alive in the columns by crediting them with smart outbursts, insists that B. A. Rolfe, the baton-er, remarked casually last night that a director to make a clever comedy must have his wits about him. The same Mr. Rolfe, it seems (according to Lottman), also insists that the latest fad among women is to keep a loose-life diary.

The Birth of Songs!

Incidentally, getting back to Con Conrad, whom we mentioned a few paragraphs above, his latest song is something called "My True Story," a torchy ballad which should prove as successful as his "You Called It Madness, I Called It Love." The song was being rehearsed in the NBC studio, and when it came to the line "I'm a Victim of Love," Paul Yawitz, the scribbler, murmured, "There's a title for a song right there alone." Four song writers dashed out of the room and within three quarters of an hour each returned with complete lyrics and music. One of the versions will probably hit the market under the title "Victim of Love." And that gives you an idea, too.

It Often Happened!

Whether you were impressed with Frances Williams' performance in "Everybody's Welcome" at the opening Tuesday night, doesn't matter particularly. The girl is starred in the show and even in these days of theatrical depression being starred is somethin'. There are plenty of other people in the show and among them, and at this writing unstarred, is Cecil Lean. Lean, years ago, was a star in his own right in a number of shows. One of them was "Innocent Eyes" and playing a subordinate part, a most subordinate part, was a blonde lass, Frances Williams. And now by a turn of the wheel it's the Williams person who is starred with Cecil Lean playing a more or less minor role.

Her Lucky Break!

Among the little gals whom I've tagged creep janes is one who shares a squalid hotel room in the forties with two other kids. Recently she was stricken with appendicitis. Penniless, there seemed only one alternative. She'd have to go to a hospital charity ward. This, she stubbornly refused to do. "What?" she screamed. "Me! In a ward? I should say not. I'll die first." Someway she managed to raise a little money, enough for a deposit for a private room in the Medical Arts hospital. How she was to pay for her operation and the balance of her hospital bill, she didn't know—but at any rate, she had the operation and a few days ago she emerged. Absolutely penniless and the hospital pressing her for payment of her bill. I saw her the other night and she told me all her troubles—but she kept grinning and chuckling all the time. "You're a plucky kid," I said. "All these debts and you haven't got a nickel."

"Oh, she said, shrugging her shoulders. "That doesn't worry me. I'm tickled silly. Know why? Because the way the doctor operated on me, the scar isn't going to show. Boy, am I happy!"

Violet Heming Signed by Fox to Make Movies in Hollywood

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

Motion Picture Editor Universal Service

New York, Oct. 16. The blonde English actress, Violet Heming, [illegible] leave for Hollywood. Winfield Sheehan signed her when he was here on his flying trip a few weeks ago. Winnie has had his eye on Miss Heming for a long time, [illegible] he talked with her about coming to Hollywood for the Fox Company. At that time her stage engagements were too numerous to permit her even to listen to a motion picture offer.

Last week her show, "Divorce Me, Dear," closed and yesterday she signed on the dotted line, which means that she will leave for the coast immediately to play the leading role in "Circumstances," a Fox picture to be directed by William Menzies.

Miss Heming has [illegible] an exceedingly interesting career. Her first appearance in this country was in "Disraeli" on the stage, opposite George Arliss. [illegible] always a consistent [illegible] for movies and "Circumstances" will be her first [illegible]

Seen and Heard

The spacious Georgian house of William Haines in Hollywood has been rented by Tallulah Bankhead. Miss Bankhead has told friends that all of her future pictures will be made at the Western studio of Paramount and she expects to remain in the motion picture city for at least a year.

Lupe Velez has changed. In the old days she would talk to any reporter and say anything they wanted her to say. Today she is silent with the press. Even her rumored engagement to John Gilbert was treated in a dignified manner. Lupe had an offer to make a picture in Europe but on advice of friends she will do her picture making in Hollywood where plenty of offers await her.

"FATIGUE? I just postpone it!"

"No, I don't have 'nerves.' You can't have them, and hold this sort of position. My head used to throb around three o'clock, and certain days, of course, were worse than others.

"Then I learned to rely on Bayer Aspirin."

The sure cure for any headache is rest. But sometimes we must postpone it. That's when Bayer Aspirin saves the day. Two tablets, and the nagging pain is gone until you are home. And once you are comfortable, the pain seldom returns.

Keep Bayer Aspirin handy. Don't put it away, or put off taking it. [illegible] a headache to find the day may be [illegible] a little foolish. So [illegible] a night [illegible] because you've an annoying cold, or irritated [illegible], or grumbling tooth, neuralgia, neuritis. These tablets always relieve. They don't depress the heart, and may be taken freely. That's medical opinion. It is a fact established by the last twenty years of medical practice.

By HELEN ROWLAND

• • •

Marriage vindicated her existence, gratified her [illegible], annoyed her enemies and pacified her friends, all at the same time. Marriage WAS a relief!

• • •

HELEN ROWLAND

• • •

For instance, many a tired business girl has married just for the sake of having her breakfast in bed and her dinner in a dining room, instead of in a tea room or a breakfast nook.

• • •

Many a bored divorcee has remarried just in order to dodge the loneliness and futility of unattached middle age, and to make it worth while to sign a lease and order a daily newspaper.

• • •

• • •

And many a thoroughly sophisticated, modernistic girl has rushed into marriage merely in order to escape from parental authority and try out her theories of life. Many a girl has left a good home where they listened for her latchkey, to live in a two-by-four flat and listen for a man's latchkey.

Albert Gets 3 Years in Prison

THE BOY there was gentle and quiet, ask his mother if he was not. But today he shoots, he, he once he might have thrown pebbles. Remorse! Remorse! How should he feel remorse now for killing a fellow who had smashed in pieces everything he had in the world when for four years he has had to shoot down innocent men? The only mistake he made was that he shot the wrong person. It was the woman he should have done in! Do you think then that four years killing can be wiped off the brain with the flabby word 'Peace' as with a wet sponge? We know well enough we cannot shoot our private enemies at will, but [illegible] anger take us and we [illegible] confused and overpowered [illegible] then where it must land.

[illegible]

'We are pleading for a comrade,' I cry. 'Do not condemn him! He had no desire to become so indifferent to life and death, none of us did. But we had to abandon all such values out there, and since we came back no man has lifted a hand to help us. Patriotism, Duty, Home. We said all these things to ourselves again and again merely to endure it, to justify it. But they were only abstractions; there was too much blood there, it swept them away.

'It is not a year since this man'—he points to Albert—'was lying out alone with his two mates in a machine gun post—the only one in the sector—and an attack came. But the three were quite calm; they set their aim and waited; they did not fire too soon. Then when the columns before them, supposing everything clear, began to advance, not till then did they open fire, and so it went on again and again. It was a long time before they could get reinforcements. But the attack was repulsed in the end. And afterwards we brought in those who had been shot down by the machine gun; there were 27 hits, every one as true as the next, almost all of them fatal—and that is not counting the rest, the thigh wounds, in the chest, in the head. This man alone'—he points to Albert again—'with his two mates had taken care of enough to fill a whole hospital, though, of course, most of the stomach wounds never got that far. And for that he was awarded the Iron Cross, First Class, and congratulated by the colonel. Do you understand now why this man is not subject to your points of law and your civil code? It is not for you to judge him. He is a soldier, he belongs to us, and we pronounce him Not Guilty.'

The Prosecutor has the floor at last. 'Such monstrous disorder—' he gasps, and shouts to the bobby to put Willy under arrest.

[illegible] the bitterness the [illegible] in us has seethed [illegible] We all get one [illegible] then now we might [illegible] from the bobby [illegible] escape, but that is not what we want. We want to go to prison with Albert. We pass close by him [illegible] that we are with him.

[illegible] he was sentenced to three years' imprisonment [illegible] spoken a word.

"Triumphs" of Venice Faked

[illegible] in her life was Venice's [illegible] and the accounts of her [illegible] The two girls were as fond of one another as their mothers were [illegible]

[illegible] Venice's [illegible] the same had [illegible] Venice [illegible] thought of [illegible] game. Noly had [illegible] expected and believed that her darling Venice was going to make a tremendous social success. It was at first [illegible] the [illegible] to disappoint her that had caused Venice to brag of social triumph which never existed.

Later it became a [illegible]

Eager Face

Noly made herself comfortable on a [illegible] on the floor, the [illegible] beneath her [illegible] the face painted pink by the flames. It was a bright [illegible] face [illegible] sharp [illegible] contours and [illegible] nothing of pathos. Of [illegible] Venice's expression [illegible] the [illegible] wistful [illegible] The fire [illegible] bringing out the copper of her [illegible] accentuated the gray [illegible] of her eyes, the fragile whiteness of her skin, the sad [illegible] droop [illegible] her small mouth. She was on the floor, too, hugging her updrawn knees, her back against a chair.

"Tell me about Lola's party," Noly demanded eagerly.

"It was lovely. Shaded lights and lots of flowers and Leo Reisman's orchestra. They play at the Central Park Casino, you know."

"Did you get any new beaux?"

"Three."

"Oh, Venice, how exciting. What did they look like and what did they say to you?"

One was tall and slim and dark, one fat, one a [illegible] young botanist. The dark one said I was beautiful, and the fat one said I was the most vivacious girl he'd ever met, and the botanist one said I had more than the average brains."

How Lovely!

"How lovely. And I suppose you couldn't get around the room more than once without some one breaking in on you."

"Just about." Color deeper than [illegible] painting was creeping into Venice's cheeks. She saw herself this much sought after [illegible] She actually was having a better time now than at Lola's party [illegible] She heard compliments in her ear, felt a touch on her arm. Another partner. Her eyes lost their limpidity, became bright and happy. She gave a little start at the sound of Noly's urgent voice.

[illegible]

At Lola's cocktail party, in the next installment, Venice meets someone who will strongly affect her life.

Daily True Story

The Lost Gardenia

TWO MEN and a girl do not always form points of the wrong kind of a triangle.

There's that one with Merrill, Babs and Jimmy.

Everyone who reads the papers remembers Merrill Brant. His trial took up too much space on front pages from Maine to California [illegible] out of one's memory. That trial in the language of Park Row had everything.

There was Merrill's family, [illegible] up with two goal polo men and two cotillion girls. There was his old affair with the platinum blonde from the Alamo settled out of court for a reputed hundred thousand. There was the [illegible] brought out at the trial with Bennie Barsotti as an intermediary to the Park Row party boys from the Bacardi peddling boys on West st. And finally there was the trial itself, with Merrill in the prisoner's dock accused of choking Barsotti with his bare hands until the gangster sheik was dead.

Prosecutor Ballard had made [illegible] of how an example must be made of this [illegible] who had taken it upon himself to take a life.

BEHIND THE SCENES

Barsotti's vicious attack [illegible] though the trial didn't cover the fact that Barsotti's hoodlum organization could swing ten thousand votes in any election.

[illegible] true all of Ballard's line of attack, but it [illegible] when he [illegible] the record the [illegible] of Merrill Brant, naming his [illegible] friends, painting him as a flagrant roisterer along the [illegible] path that twists in and out of the Canyon of the Lights.

It [illegible] good copy when Babs Brant, Merrill's sister, would smooth his hair and pat his hand at some particularly vicious point made by the prosecutor. And it made better copy yet when Jimmy Carter, whose family was as old as that of the Brants, whose hell-for-leather riding won him a No. 1 position on the polo four that [illegible] the English invaders, had [illegible] with Ballard in the corridor one day after court.

"You're playing rotten, cheap and dirty politics all through this case," Jimmy told Ballard, coldly. "I don't know the motive, but I know my Blackstone, and you're a tawdry sensation-monger, a rat."

Two policemen and friends of the two men kept it from being a rough and tumble, but it sure made swell eight column headlines.

All through that trial the folks who sat tensely in the courtroom noticed that the jury seemed to scarcely listen, while witness after witness hammered home some point for prosecution or defense.

Then when the evidence was [illegible] in but before the summations had been made there came that final sensation, the hurried conference called by Judge Clark in his chambers, and his subsequent statement from the bench.

"An attempt has been made to perpetrate a gross injustice, to make a mockery of right and wrong in this very court"—Judge Clark's voice had been sharp and bitter when he said it. "I am going to do an unprecedented thing.

"Information has been brought to me that indicates the 'packing' of the jury. It is information sufficiently strong to make me call this trial a mistrial pending an investigation."

There were three days of speculation. Then three jurors were named in indictments charging conspiracy. Ballard, the prosecutor, dropped from sight. Some said he was dead, some that he'd fled the country. And in due course of time the explanation came.

Barsotti's political sponsors had demanded Merrill's life. They had demanded that the young society man be sent to the chair for killing Barsotti. But they wanted everything done with due course of law. They could have had him rubbed out with a machine gun, but the other way would be a far greater demonstration of gang power.

A NEW ANGLE

Each panel of jurors as it was called [illegible] a man or two who had owed allegiance to the Barsotti gang. A careful process of weeding out left four men on the jury who would have stayed in that jury room to doomsday unless a verdict came out sending Merrill to the chair.

But there's one angle of it all that never got into the papers, and that's the angle that really [illegible] most interesting of all. [illegible] of me today there's a letter from Paris written by Jimmy Carter. Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] Carter and Mr. Brant are trying to forget [illegible] The letter from [illegible] and he asks me among other things to [illegible] that he won't be back to play polo any more this year. He says:

"Every day during the trial you know I wore pinned in my coat the gardenia that Babs Brant liked to have me wear. That day I had the jam up in the hall with Ballard, that gardenia got lost in the shuffle but the pin still stayed in place.

"And later on, when I was in the corridor smoking, a stranger walked up and surreptitiously slipped me an envelope. He looked at my lapel before he did, and then went scurrying away. The envelope, when I looked at its contents later, had 10 one hundred dollar bills.

"It puzzled me, and then I remembered that searching look at my lapel. I went back into court. I made it a point to look for something. And I found it. What?—pins in lapels of four juror's coats.

"We got busy, Bab and I. We traced the jurors whose coats had the pins. We had private detectives dig into their records, and we found that they had held conferences with Barsotti men. We got secret search warrants from Judge Clark, and in two of the jurors' homes we found hidden hundred dollar bills. Sure, one of them finally squealed.

"Merrill's decided he's through with playing. When [illegible] and I complete our honeymoon we're all coming back and Merrill and I are going into business as partners."

[illegible] by way of passing explains [illegible] Carter's [illegible] stick pin made from a common small black-headed pin set in platinum and surrounded by the finest diamonds.

Most folks think it's just a freak idea, but you and I now know better.

M'EWAN SCORES PLAYER-COACH PLAN

FANNING

—By GEORGE UNDERWOOD—

Pals Clash Tomorrow. ↕ Sasse Interesting.
Brown-Tufts Captains. So Is Stuldreher.
Brothers Meet in N. Y. Also Alonzo Stagg.

FLITTING HITHER AND YON IN SPORT

The Brown and Tufts captains, Paul Mackessey [illegible] Krupmann, who will lead their teams against each other tomorrow, were brought up together and lived next door to each other [illegible] Woodlawn st., Lynn. They were classmates at Lynn Cla[illegible] ... Tony Colluccı, Holy Cross' great end, was a freshman at D[illegible]mouth and won his football numerals there ... Then [illegible] the Green for the Purple ... Andy Retelli of Br[illegible] opposite ... After enrolling at Holy Cross he jumped to B[illegible] ... P. S.—Princeton wished he hadn't ... Ralph H[illegible] prepped at Worcester Academy, planned to enter D[illegible] and then switched to Columbia. He leads Columbia against the Big Green Team, tomorrow ... Those scant[illegible] lo[illegible] loping up the drive were not poor stock brokers going home to their mansion ... They were Harvard cross-country [illegible] training for today's races with Dartmouth and M I T

Major Ralph Sasse, the Army coach is an interesting chap ... Went through the hell of it Over There as tank commander in Flanders ... Lucky thing for the Army he's not sleeping under the poppies on Flanders Fields ... Is a He Man They tell a story about how one dark night in Flanders he took off his oak leaves and Sam Brown belt to give a too belligerent top sergeant satisfaction ... And what a licking that top sergeant got! ... Did wonders with West Point eleven last year after succeeding the great Biff Jones as coach and introducing the intricate double wing back system ... Army beat Harvard, Navy, Illinois, tied Yale and lost by one thin point to record-wrecking Notre Dame ... Army looks almost as strong this year ... Anyway, we'll see after tomorrow's Harvard duel ... Remember last year's Harvard-Army game? It was a Bay State boy, Eddie Herb of Medford, who beat Harvard ... He did it with a 30-yard dash on a short side fake play ... Sasse's boys sprang some brand new football against Michigan State last Saturday ... John Harvard will have his peepers open tomorrow

Another interesting fellow is old man Stagg of Chicago, whom Eli Yale is going all the way West to see tomorrow . Close to half a century ago Alonzo Stagg was a bright and shining star at Yale ... Made Walter Camp's All-American team of 1889 ... Soon afterward went West to coach and has been at it ever since ... The great Knute Rockne said he got the basis for his football system from Stagg ... Learned it from Jess Harper, who was Stagg's quarterback ... Stagg was the father of the shift, which is the cornerstone of the Notre Dame system ... Old Man Stagg also "invented" the fake cross-buck by the whirling quarter which is the father of the modern spinner . Old Man Stagg originated intersectional games .. Way back in 1898 he staged the first East vs. West conflict, Chicago vs. Pennsylvania ... Cornell Dartmouth, Princeton, Brown Pennsylvania and Carlisle have clashed with Chicago, but this is Yale's first visit to their illustrious alumnus

Still another rather intriguing bucko is Harry Stuldreher who leads Villanova on the field against B. C. here tomorrow .. Everyone knows Harry was one of the famous Four Horsemen ... Harry drove them ... He was All-American quarter in 1924 ... Like our own Barry Wood of Harvard, Harry was as brilliant in his studies as he was on the gridiron. He's had Villanova playing some great football ... Speaking of Wood, Barry certainly will have to use his brains against the Army tomorrow . The Cadets have a wonderfully deceptive offense ... That is just what Eddie Casey is supposed to have been covering up at Harvard . What a battle the Army-Harvard contest should be . The two Grossman brothers, Jack of Rutgers and Nat of N. Y. U. will be in opposing battlefronts tomorrow ... So will "Stiffy" Jarvis of Fordham, and his brother, "Boots" Jarvis of Holy Cross.

In the dressing room after the Carnera fight, Jack Sharkey showed Big Primo how to close his hand for greater effect ... That was Jack Dempsey's way ... The old Man Killer was a deadly enemy inside the ropes, a good friend outside of them ... We've seen the Manassa Mauler stop in the dressing room and give a preliminary boy some pointers ... Gene Tunney was not so friendly or helpful ... The thrilling fight put up by Sharkey and Carnera has done more to rehabilitate The Game than anything that has happened in a long time ... The Garrulous Gob is sitting atop the fistic world again ... Looks as if the Sharkey-Schmeling match was a sure thing for next summer

The two "gamest" heavies in the ring will come together when Carnera and Paulino clash in New York ... Baseball men [illegible] say Connie Mack will retire from active managing and turn the reins over to Eddie Collins next spring ... Gunboat Smith unjustly was panned for resuming count over Carnera, who went down after rising ... The old Gunner acted in accord with the rules which governed the bout ... And what a stench would have arisen had Smith given the Garrulous Gob the victory on a knockout at that time ... Smith used more judgment than some of the critics who panned him ... Benny Leonard is going to try all over again ... After that fromageous Pal Silvers bout in New York King Bennah was told to go out and fight some real scrappers and then come back and get a real welcome in N. Y. ... He will meet Vittorio Livan at the Arena here on October 27 .. The Massachusetts commission will watch the bout closely

The Notre Dame system is so infectious that even the Japs have caught it ... Anyway, Arthur Matsu, the little Jap who used to play on William and Mary and who is coaching at Rutgers, has been teaching N. D. plays to his charges ... Bob McNamara, the N. Y. U. star, is a Wellesley boy ... Stars on diamond as well as gridiron ... He held Holy Cross to one hit last spring ... Bert Cassells, whom Yale will have to watch on the line tomorrow, is the son of the old end of the same name who starred for Chicago in the '90s ... Dartmouth massacred Columbia, 54 to 0, last year ... This is another year and tomorrow is another day.

Although the Harvard-Army game has the call from the enthusiasts in this sector there are three fine attractions scheduled in New York city for Saturday The Fordham-Holy Cross game will draw a tremendous crowd N. Y. U. and Rutgers will not lack for support and Dartmouth and Columbia are hoping for a big attendance

"Cowboy" Elliott who will start at quarter for the Army against Harvard, owes his rise in football to Austie Tate, present Lehigh coach. Tate taught Elliott the fundamentals of the gridiron game at Liberty high school, in Bethlehem, Pa., and then had the present Army star for two years at Lehigh

Although he admitted that he was not going to cover the game a Texas scribe wired the H. A. A. for four complimentary tickets for the Harvard-Texas game. [illegible]

SYSTEM 'PRO' IDEA, SAYS H. C. MENTOR

By MYLES T. McSWEENEY

[illegible]

Coach [illegible] and it seems reasonable enough that a man in a game is so preoccupied with playing his own position that he is neither in the position nor in the proper mental state to say when one of his fellow players should be removed

[illegible]

If he would, then he would be to all intents and purposes a coach and nothing would be gained by removing the real coach from the bench

Boston College Coach Opposes Plan

[illegible]

It seems to me," said McKenney, "that in seeking to avoid one kind of overemphasis we run into another, that of overemphasizing the duties of a player. After all, a player should get some fun out of the game and not be burdened with responsibility.

"There is always the danger, too, that a player coach might not be in a position to judge the proper time to remove a player from the game

[illegible]

"I certainly do not approve of the plan of allowing players to run a football team. I would not allow a son of mine to play under such a scheme

"The responsibility of detecting injuries promptly must rest with an experienced coach, and a player in action is not in a position to safeguard his teammates. Men playing football are entitled to the most expert guidance and control. The idea is too professional

One of the [illegible] already [illegible] football season is Harvard [illegible] moments are only 24 hours away. Tomorrow [illegible] Michie Stadium at West Point, named in honor of [illegible] Army football, Harvard will have its baptism [illegible] against [illegible] to be [illegible] Army team.

[illegible] Knox and [illegible] Warner [illegible] also Michigan State and its Notre Dame [illegible] done so [illegible] Harvard has defeated [illegible] New England colleges, Bates and New Hampshire. Army [illegible] experience a [illegible] more of a known quantity. Harvard [illegible] big game experience and is an unknown quantity.

The Cadets have an offense which they have worked with success [illegible] the start of the [illegible] have been [illegible] Notre Dame [illegible] amplify [illegible] upon a [illegible] attack has not been [illegible] test [illegible] Michigan State [illegible] Cadet Stadium tomorrow.

The Army-Harvard game is only one of a [illegible] ing Eastern games. Dartmouth and Columbia are [illegible] York [illegible] Fordham and Holy Cross [illegible] Cornell [illegible] start lines up against Princeton and Yale [illegible] to Chicago [illegible] pitches a game which means much to the [illegible] season.

Yale Due to Hit Stride in Chi Fray

Yale [illegible] than a testing game [illegible] was [illegible] Georgia [illegible] seems able to [illegible] team against Chicago [illegible] push [illegible] week [illegible] Yale should be a more polished team.

Chicago [illegible] on a new offense [illegible] has the knowledge [illegible] better than expected [illegible] Michigan [illegible] wreckage of an early season defeat [illegible] Chicago though Yale on paper seems to have the better [illegible]

Football [illegible] step out against a team [illegible] To [illegible] get away to a good start against Brown [illegible] excellent [illegible] team [illegible] Cornell will be [illegible] Princeton [illegible] material at Ithaca [illegible] been the case [illegible] don [illegible] than anything else will give it a [illegible] edge.

Green, Rams Have Edge in N. Y. Games

Both of the opponents in that [illegible] battle at Hanover last week [illegible] New York [illegible] Holy Cross [illegible] Dartmouth [illegible] that Holy Cross may be [illegible] strengthened [illegible] players who were unable to participate against Dartmouth.

Dartmouth from a standpoint of material [illegible] to Columbia. Lou Little has been [illegible] with a [illegible] he has a [illegible] Hewitt [illegible] and the sophomore Montgomery [illegible] Columbia [illegible] fine spirit and is more football minded than has been [illegible] the past. Certainly Dartmouth looks forward to a [illegible] game than its [illegible] win over the New Yorkers a year ago. If Dartmouth [illegible] the Big Green team should [illegible] hitting game.

Fordham [illegible] football team [illegible] feated Boston College in Boston last Monday [illegible] Holy Cross will have to play better football than [illegible] against Dartmouth to win this game. Fordham has [illegible] line backs in Jack [illegible] and Jim Murphy [illegible] the attack will be impaired considerably if Major Cavanaugh is unable to use Jackie Fisher, a good pilot and superb passer. Fordham would seem to have the edge.

Out on the Pacific Coast Northwestern [illegible] its intersectional game with University California of Los Angeles as distinguished from the University of California. Southern California plays Oregon and Stanford meets the Oregon Aggies, which team Warner's [illegible] team could beat [illegible]

Through the South and Southwest there are some [illegible] tion battles ahead. Alabama and Tennessee, two of the [illegible] teams of the country a year ago, are meeting in a game that may eventually decide sectional honors.

In the Southwest the sensational Rice team which [illegible] Texas last week, hooks up with Southern Methodist, which has been one of the powers in Southwest football in recent years. Texas will play Oklahoma in another Conference game, and Texas Christian hopes to duplicate its 3-0 win of a year ago over Texas Aggies. Then there is the promise of a great game between Vanderbilt and Tulane.

Aside from the Yale-Chicago game, the prominent Mid-West clashes feature Michigan and Ohio State, Notre Dame and Drake and Wisconsin and [illegible]. Michigan, a good defensive team, meets a strong offensive team, which also can be scored upon, in Ohio State. The State team only last week pushed over three touchdowns, but nevertheless lost to Vanderbilt. [illegible] may have the edge on Wisconsin in a Conference game, while Notre Dame hardly looks for trouble with Drake, which it beat 28 to 7 a year ago.

Bowser's Splendid Offer

Paul Bowser, a fine sportsman, surpassed even some of his former generous efforts for charity when he agreed to guarantee the unemployed of Boston $15,000 and in addition turn over the entire gate receipts, other than Jim Londos' purse, for a bout between the Greek heavyweight and Jack Sherry. Such a venture would net the poor $25,000. Sherry has already agreed to wrestle without compensation.

Bowser has raised more money for worthy charities than any wrestling promoter in the world.

GOOD GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON

Golf's Greatest Teacher

I have shown you that resistance to your golf ball multiplies as the square of the force applied to it, hence the de[illegible] of striving for smoothness [illegible] That is why we have dimple and mesh markings on the ball. If the surface of the ball were smooth it would dart every which way in the air. The air, however, gets hold of the ball's markings and, with equal pressure on its roughened surface, keeps it straight, if you [illegible] stroked it that the club face was square in the direction line at the moment of impact. Now that you know the air out there will steer your ball for you, why look up to see where it's going? And why slug at it when you know, as you now must, that with half again as much physical force you could get only a few yards more at best? Build your golf henceforth on the knowledge I have given you of the facts of Force and Resistance.

LIVE NEWS OF WALL STREET

RAILROAD shares were rally leaders again in today's quiet session of the New York Stock Exchange. Buying was based on outlook for an early report from the Interstate Commerce Commission on the carriers' plea for a 15 per cent rate increase with growing inference that the decision would be favorable to some degree.

Rise of Carrier Stocks Is Sharp

Today's rise in the carrier stocks was rather sharp, gains of 2 to more than 5 points speedily appearing for Atchison, New Haven, Union Pacific, New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio and Southern Pacific.

Loans Only Eighth of Record Total

Reserve board's report on brokers' loans shows the total [illegible] the lowest on record and only one-eighth as large as in the record peak of 1929.

Industrial Favorites Join in the Rally

Railroad shares today had staged [illegible] part of their rally when they were joined by the favorite industrials and gains of a point or two quickly came for U. S. Steel, American Telephone and Consolidated Gas.

Anticipate Big Shoe Seasons

That the shoe manufacturers are looking forward to a good year in 1932 is evident from the various predictions made before the Allied Industries of Shoe and Leather. It is the belief that the spring and summer of next year are likely to be the biggest seasons in the history of the shoe industry. Shoe manufacturers have been doing remarkably well in recent months.

Some time ago economies were put into effect which permitted a substantial reduction in costs. This saving was passed along to the consumers, with the result that more business has been done in units sold.

Associated 'Phone Instals More Units

Associated Telephone Utilities System added more than 1200 new telephones to lines of Ohio companies as a result of a special sales campaign during September.

So far this year the company has added more than 23,000 new telephones to its lines, offsetting losses to business curtailment in most areas, it was stated.

New York Standard Oil Prices Lower

New York, Oct. 16 (AP)—Standard Oil Company of New York has reduced bunker and diesel oil prices 10 cents a barrel, effective today.

—SPECTATOR—
Says:

Unless all signs fail, the market is definitely established in an uptrend as the result of recent comeback. True, the rise could not be termed overly impressive. Neither was the reaction particularly heartening. However, the ability of the stock list to turn up at a crucial point in the proceedings has served to convince the more critical observers that the market is still receiving important sponsorship.

Rediscount Rate

Announcement of a further increase in the New York rediscount rate to 3½ per cent was largely foreshadowed by the turn of events in the money markets earlier in the week and is not likely to exert much effect upon stocks although it may occasion renewed unsettlement in U. S. government obligations.

It will not be long before the Interstate Commerce Commission will give its decision on the freight rate question, and hope has not yet dawned that it will be favorable. The strengthening tendency of carrier stocks tended to confirm this belief.

6 Per Cent Return

Some idea of the drastic extent to which deflation in the stock market has been carried is evidenced from the following statistical analysis which indicates how much various stocks could reduce present dividends and still give a 6 per cent return.

With current prices as a base, American Telephone could reduce its annual payment from $9 to approximately $8.50 and still provide a return of 6 per cent. General Motors could reduce from $3 to $1.50. Allied Chemical from $6 to $4.50.

While it showed some recession in the last hour, it came back in the final 15 minutes to close at the best levels of the day, showing numerous advances of 1 to 5 points.

1,500,000-SHARE DAY

Trading was in moderate volume, the turnover approximating 1,500,000 shares.

Wall Street generall interpreted th eincrease in the federal reserve's rediscount rate as constructive, and was encouraged by a more optimistic tone in the weekly mercantile reviews.

In the bond market, some of the high grade, low yield issues, such as the U. S. governments, reacted rather severely, in a normal response to increasing money rates, but higher yield issues advanced with stocks.

Rails and industrials were strong features in stocks. Gains of 2 to 5 points appeared in such issues as American Telephone, U. S. Steel, Atchison, New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio, Eastman, du Pont, Norfolk & Western, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific and Westinghouse Electric.

North American and Consolidated Gas were among shares up a point or more.

RETAIL TRADE GAINS

News that the Bruening government had been sustained by a vote of 294 to 270 in the German reichstag was generally regarded in Wall Street as reassuring. Nevertheless some international bankers feel that the possible unfavorable consequences of a Hitlerite government in Germany have been exaggerated.

The rediscount rate is still considerably below the average rate since the reserve system was founded in 1914. Save for the recent period of extremely low rates, the rediscount rate has gone below 4 per cent only in the years 1924-28.

Bankers explained that, since the easy-money policy had failed to stimulate the market or business and had been only partially successful in checking the flow of unwanted gold into this country, a return to more normal basis could scarcely be regarded as adverse.

Weekly mercantile reviews were more cheerful, reporting better retail trade in many cities and signs of restoration of confidence. Foreign trade figures for September showed a fair seasonal gain over August.

First Nat'l Gains in Dollar Volume

While tonnage sales have steadily run ahea dof last year, dollar sales of First National Stores for the five weeks ending September 26, were for the first time in 14 months ahead of the same period the year before. As the general level of food prices is apparently stabilizing, the tonnage gains, which have been running between 14 per cent and 16 per cent, should spell gain in dollar totals from now out.

Scott Paper Profits for 9 Months Up

Scott Paper Co. reports for first nine months of 1931 net sales of $6,704,658, an increase of $214,936, or more than 3 per cent over same period last year. Tonnage of sales during the nine months was about 15 per cent greater than corresponding period in 1930, the lower dollar percentage reflecting price reductions. Company increased its 1931 advertising appropriation to include an additional newspaper campaign this fall.

Jersey Standard Offers New Product

Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey has introduced a new pure hydrocarbon oil known as Paraflow, the addition of from ¼ of 1 per cent to 1 per cent of which to the proper grades of motor oils is said to improve their qualities considerably and at the same time eliminate necessity of expensive treating processes for removing excess parafin wax.

Leaders Are Firm in Curb Dealings

New York, Oct. 16—Leaders were generally firm on the curb today. American Gas & Electric was up nearly 2 points. Tampa Electric was an exception, off nearly 5. Active leaders, such as Electric Bond & Share, American Superpower, Associated Gas & Electric A, Niagara Hudson Power and United Light & Power A, were steady.

Federal National Dividend Ordered

Federal National Bank declared regular semi-annual dividend of 5 per cent in stock, payable Nov. 16 to stock of record Oct. 31. A special meeting of stockholders has been called for Nov. 14 at 11 a. m. to approve increase in capital to provide for the stock dividend.

Ribbon Mills Have Big Rise in Profit

New York, Oct. 16—The Century Ribbon Mills, Inc. reports for eight months ended Aug. 31, net of $113,468 in profits against $43,504 for eight months ended Aug. 31, 1930.

W. C., Brookline—I have $11,000 Title Guarantee & Trust 5½s and $6000 Lawyers' Title Guaranty 5½s and a private first mortgage amounting to $4500. I plan to buy 10 shares each New York Central and Delaware, Lackawanna & Western. Are earnings good? Do you consider them good investments?

Ans.—Though New York Central and Delaware, Lackawanna & Western have had excellent records, both issues have become speculative because of falling off in profits due to the general business depression. New York Central's earnings of 90 cents a share in the six months ended June 30 do not assure the current $4 annual rate. Net operating income of $22,463,816 for eight months ended August 30 contrasted with $41,024,175 for similar period of 1930. Commencing October 20, Delaware, Lackawanna & Western will be on a $2 annual basis. July 20, $1 a share was distributed. Net for six months ended June 30 was 56 cents a share, against $1.56 for corresponding period of 1930. Net operating income for eight months ended August 30 amounted to $4,929,225, compared with $7,296,267 for first eight months of 1930. Title Guarantee & Trust 5½s and Lawyer's Title & Guaranty 5½s are considered sound.

Cousins Tells What Rise in Rail Rate Would Do

By W. S. COUSINS

New York, Oct. 16—A 15 per cent increase in freight rates would enable the railroads of the country to increase their purchases of steel products by nearly 15 per cent, forest products 13.3 per cent, and other necessary supplies and equipment in proportion, according to Milton W. Harrison, president of the Security Owners Association and a recognized authority on railroad finance.

"Every recovery from business depression since the Civil War was, with one exception, ushered in by a rise in bond prices," said Mr. Harrison, in an exclusive interview with International News Service today.

INDIFFERENCE OF BUYERS

Secondary railroad bonds, he said, were handicapped at this time by the indifference of buyers, causing an awkward "spread" between the bid price and offering price of the bonds. Returning confidence of investors and the willingness of some people to bring their money out of hiding will prove an effective remedy against declining values in the bond market.

"The relief measures provided under the direction of far-seeking bankers, in co-operation with President Hoover, were predicated upon an assured recovery from the business depression," Mr. Harrison declared.

"Every one of America's 37,000,000 wage-earners has a direct responsibility for the ending of that depression. Normal spending, based on courage and confidence in the future of the country, by Americans holding steady positions, would effectively aid in the recovery from depression, and no other known method can be counted on to bring about that result."

Mr. Harrison declared that the Government and industrial heads were justified at this time in hazarding large resources in relief measures, based on the probability of an assured recovery. The banking pool, he said, represented the sacrifice of a relatively small amount of liquidity by certain large financial institutions in order to aid smaller banks which may be embarrassed by "frozen assets."

CONSUMER BUYING CITED.

Consumer buying of goods, he said, will undoubtedly prove to be an effective team-mate of this powerful factor.

"More traffic and equitable rates are esential to the maintenance of sound financial conditions on the railroads," said Mr. Harrison. "But present values of many good railroad bonds have no relationship whatever with market quotations."

Maturing obligations of the railroads next year total only $70,000,000, excluding $55,000,000 of short term notes and $114,000,000 of equipment notes, according to Mr. Harrison's compilation. The possible extension of a large credit by Congress may be used to cover these obligations and relieve the situation.

"Behind the railroads of the country is tremendous value, not only as property, but as a going concern," said the security owners' expert. "Under normal conditions the income from the operation of the roads i smore than sufficient to afford investors in well-secured bonds ample protection.

THAT AMERICAN SWEET TOOTH

While the candy industry is not depression-proof, it has suffered relatively less than other lines of business, owing to the gigantic American sweet tooth. Per capita consumption of candy in this country is the largest in the world, totaling about 12 pounds a person annually, or 1,500,000,000 pounds total consumption. The industry encompasses investments of more than $300,000,000, according to Department of Commerce estimates, and engages the services of more than 250,000 people. Retail sales each year aggregate upward of $750,000,000. Although references to confectionery go back to about 2000 B. C., recent progress has far outstripped the methods of the ancients. Since 1900, sales have increased more than 800 per cent. The culmination of another vigorous country-wide sales campaign will result on October 17, which has been set as a special Candy Day.

"Youth," says Robert G. Ropp, of the Allied Forces for Prohibition, "is not wildly trying to evade the laws of the land."

In fact, youth seems very nonchalant, systematic and matter-of-course about it.

Indeed, youth doesn't seem to be aware of the fact that there is a law of the land.

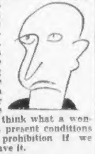
Today's News Picture



This is Semilonic G. Doakes, lifelong temperance worker, who became violent at a late hour yesterday and has been confined in the psychopathic ward for observance. Doakes was known to have been brooding and otherwise behaving in a strange manner for weeks since he happened to think what a wonderful argument present conditions would be for prohibition if we didn't already have it.

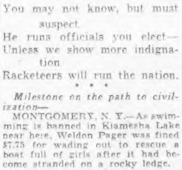
And then there's the frugal bootlegger who saves for a wet administration.

CORRUPTION BLUES



The racketeer, the racketeer,
If he would only run his beer,
This land of so much liberty
Would not be in such misery—
But in addition to the beer
The wiley, ruthless racketeer
Runs the courts of justice, too,
In fact he's running me and you.
You may not know, but must suspect.
He runs officials you elect—
Unless we show more indignation
Racketeers will run the nation.

Heaven Help Us!

America's Precarious Situation

The bullheadedness of our "muddlemen" at Washington, whom convention dignifies by the term of diplomats, places this nation, CONTRARY TO ITS WILL AND AGAINST ITS EXPRESSED WISHES, tottering on the brink of the European abyss, where it needs only a slight push from any quarter to be mired up to its neck in the European turmoil.

War impends in the Far East.

Although there has been no formal declaration of war, there IS armed conflict between Japan and China—the League, the League Court, the Kellogg Peace Pact, the Nine-Power Treaty and all the other piffle-pacts to the contrary notwithstanding.

And if we avoid participation in the conflict we can thank our lucky stars and the ministrations of a Kind Providence, for our internationally-minded Mr. Hoover and his spotlight seeking Secretary of State have done their utmost to place this nation in its present predicament.

Our people repeatedly have registered their convictions that we want NONE of the League or any of its processes.

But the will of the people MEANS NOTHING TO MR. HOOVER; the internationalists, along with all of Europe, want us in the League and Mr. Hoover, at their behest, is trying to get us there, one way or another.

Thunderous "noes" of the American electorate have greeted every suggestion of United States' participation in the League or the League Court, but despite this plain mandate of the American people, our blundering Secretary of State tries boldly to push us across the very threshold of the League and into the Far East imbroglio.

Mr. Stimson pledged our support to back up the League we want nothing to do with, although he had no right to do so.

The Hoover Administration sent to Geneva an "unofficial observer" who dallies about the doors of the League tribunal, waiting for a chance to poke his nose into an affair that is none of his concern nor ours. He tries to force himself upon the League councils, and although Japan growls and resents his intrusion, he may get into the mess, because the LEAGUE ANNOUNCES IT WANTS HIM IN, and may take him in, over the Nippon protest.

Then we will be in, and as the cable unfolds the latest dispatches from Geneva, all Europe chuckles at our discomfiture.

And in the face of this strange course of procedure, the Hoover-Stimson inspired press has the audacity to declare:

> "He has certainly not involved us in any real war danger whatever."

The League is trying to drag Uncle Sam into its embraces, whether he wills it or no. And when Sam enters a conference with Old World diplomats, he's lost.

> "But, while the Japanese war thrust has driven the United States closer to the League, it also has revealed the inherent weakness of the League as an organization LONG ON TALK AND SHORT ON ACTION."

Europe, if the Hoover-Stimson-Internationalist combination has its way, would do the TALKING, and Uncle Sam would be shoved to the front to do the ACTING.

This is the precarious situation of the United States today.

In the words of the New York Evening Post, heretofore a consistent League advocate:

> "IT IS AN AMAZING COMMENTARY UPON THE AMERICAN SYSTEM OF GOVERNMENT THAT A SECRETARY OF STATE SHOULD BE ABLE BY EXECUTIVE ACTION TO DISREGARD AND OVER-RIDE THE DELIBERATELY EXPRESSED MANDATE OF THE NATION."

Heaven help us!

Will Harvard Stay Out?

Her Chance to Help the Needy

Come on, Harvard.

We do not want to see you standing on the sidelines, idle, while the other great colleges of the East are doing their utmost to relieve the sufferings of the poor and needy.

In every great crisis which has tested this country, from the Revolution itself, through slavery, the Civil War, the reconstruction period to the World War, you have furnished a leadership and acquitted yourself with high honor.

Surely your sons are no less resolute now than then.

The call upon you is urgent. For there is no crisis more severe to a country than one which finds millions out of work, which drives them to bread lines and imposes actual suffering upon their women and children.

The tragedy of this situation and its requirement of relief will impress themselves upon you.

Because it is not your record to be found wanting in any serious emergency.

Club Acts Wisely

Young Republicans Denounce Prohibition

The Republican Club of Massachusetts, composed very largely of the younger and aggressive men who alone can rejuvenate their party from the succession of defeats it has suffered in this State, denounces prohibition and demands its repeal.

The club members declared by formal resolution that prohibition is utterly unenforceable.

Of course it is. The experience of the last ten years has more than demonstrated that.

The Republican Club does a service to itself, to its party and to its country by recognizing the evils of prohibition and demanding their elimination.

We can have true temperance, we can have law and order, we can have honesty and decency by erecting in the place of prohibition a government system which will allow beer and wine under proper and honest supervision.

Listen, World!

By Elsie Robinson

Still Crying

I HATED someone.

For years that hate went on. It was quite a nuisance. It prevented my going certain places. It cut me off from several pleasant people. It made me reject some good opportunities. Worst of all, it was a secret center of infection in my life. No matter how happy I was, how busy and friendly in my other relationships, that core of bitterness remained within me, spreading its poison of resentment and suspicion into everything I did.

Elsie Robinson

The other day, the person I hated died.

It startled me. He had become, through my hate, such an important person in my life, I could hardly realize that he had gone out of my life forever . . . that he would never hurt me again.

Then, as one does, I began to check up on all the harm he had done me. I discovered, with great amazement, that he had not harmed me for many years. Nor had I actually suffered from the effect of his old injury during those years. I had really been perfectly free from him and his malice. BUT I HAD GONE ON HATING BECAUSE I HAD ACQUIRED THE HABIT OF HATING. I HAD GONE ON WASTING MY ENERGIES, POISONING MY SPIRIT, LIMITING MY LIFE . . . THOUGH THE ACTUAL BARRIER AGAINST HAPPINESS HAD LONG SINCE BEEN REMOVED.

And I remembered something that had happened when my little lad was here. Two years old—into everything—you know how they are at that age. I was busy . . . couldn't race after him. So I built a low fence across the big bay window and popped him in there with his toys.

Mad? Insulted? What that half-portion of golden-haired baby felt about that fence could be heard for five blocks. He yelled, he shrieked . . . standing behind the fence, fists doubled, eyes squeezed tight, he opened his mouth and shot the works.

Laughing to myself, I tip-toed up, and removed the fence without his knowledge. On went the yells. The howls redoubled. But finally, his wind gave out. Slowly, reluctantly, he opened one furious blue eye . . . then both! The fence was gone! All those howls for nothing! Such a sheepish little boy grinned back at me.

The fence had disappeared but he had gone on yelling . . . my hurt had vanished but I had gone on hating!

"Oh, little lad," I whispered, through sudden, understanding tears, "what foolish children we both were. Still crying though the barriers have gone. Have you learned better, in that place where you are now? Perhaps I will—some day."

And I thought how it is that way with all of us. What time, what energy we waste in grieving over some past pain, or fear, or wrong. The chances we miss, thinking ourselves shackled! The tears of self-pity that we shed! The envy we feel for more fortunate, free souls.

AND ALL THE WHILE WE ARE AS FREE AS THEY!

THERE IS NO BARRIER . . . IT PASSED LONG AGO!

BUT, IN OUR MINDS, WE STILL BELIEVE IT'S THERE. AND SO WE STILL STAND BARRED . . . BY SHADOWS.

Just Folks

Greatness

Greatness has a way of seeing
Deeper than the common being.
Like the brilliant ray which passes
Through opaque and solid masses,
Greatness straight through shams can enter
To the heart and to the center.

Greatness seems to see life fully;
Never partly, never dully.
Never to man's weakness blinded,
Never proud and haughty-minded,
Greatness never grows forgetful
Of the ills which make men fretful.

Having suffered, having sorrowed,
Strength from others having borrowed,
Knowing well how glories crumble,
Greatness everywhere is humble
And it has a way of sharing
All the burdens men are bearing.

Greatness adds unto its splendor
By rememb'ring to be tender.
It respects and plays the neighbor
And the friend to all who labor,
For it sees how slight the chance is
By which any man advances.

New York Day by Day

Thoughts While Strolling

NEW YORK, Oct. 16—Thoughts while strolling: I'm always mixing up Arthur Train and Arthur Stringer. Anyway, one or the other married Jobyna Howland. And she's a grand comedienne. What happened to the old expression: "As good as wheat"? Katherine Brush is a striking image of a famous Italian princess.

Damon Runyon, a Pueblo, Col., boy, who made good in the city. Taxis with silvered tops and plaid bodies. Young Rockefeller sauntering up the avenue. He doesn't seem depressed by his "paper losses." That show-off debutante with the Mae West slouch. And the depression is putting a crimp in debutanting. Goody!

All the Beauty Salons are named for Hollywood. It used to be Paris. Wonder why they don't make a full length Mickey Mouse? That pert little haberdashery on 49th street that heralds: "Big Re-Organization Sale." I'd like to see Messmore Kendall and Lee Olwell in an eyebrow-matching contest.

George Buckley stepping high after three years strapped to a plank in a hospital. On Broadway they call playing a practical joke—"giving him the business." George Gershwin and his Dad. Pals. Their comradeship recalls the late Don Allen and his father. They worked, played and traveled together.

On a street in Chicago one day the father stopped suddenly, gasped: "So long, son," and fell lifeless. And in a short while Don was a suicide in Boston. Dudley Field Malone could double for Winston Churchill. Something restful about church steps in twilight. I always want to sit there.

Frank Sullivan is taking on another chin. What became of Magistrate Jean Norris? They report a high yellow gal has an apartment in one of the smartest hotels. A lull in "love nest" shootings. And tooth paste people haven't discovered a new disease to cure lately.

James Gerard has the shortest neck in town. John Charles Thomas the smallest ears, Elise Bartlett the greenest eyes and Robert Sherwood the longest legs. Young Will Hearst needs a haircut. Dusk in a public square. The clutch of lovers' hands. And a blaze in their eyes.

* * *

I wonder what others do in those moments of acute embarrassment resulting from stupid blunders. Last evening in a sudden shower while trying to hail a taxi an auto passed. I thought I recognized in it a gentleman I knew and when he stopped at my signal, opened the door and plopped in the seat beside him. As the car started I recognized the mistake. He was a total stranger but generously carried me home. In thanking him I said: "It was lucky I found you were someone else, but I'm mighty grateful just the same." And any bright scholar making sense out of that one is entitled to a crock of braided spinach.

* * *

There is something near grand literature in this penciled postcard from one signing himself "A Bowery Lodging House Guest": "My heart, utterly drained of courage, feebly fluttered between the warmth of life and the cold terror of death this evening. In a movie whither I crept, because it offers nearest to the disillusionment of a booze I cannot afford, a young girl sat in an adjoining seat. She was the type, as proud and swift as a mustang's colt of which any father might be proud. In what looked to her as a fumble in the darkness for the arm of the seat my hand closed over hers and I departed. She was my daughter. Four years ago I was her hero. And the old story—market, gambling, drink, a Bowery flop and oblivion."

* * *

The late T. A. Dorgan (Tad) was an established artist when an accident in San Francisco deprived him most of his fingers of his drawing hand. Instead of taking the count, Tad learned to draw all over again with his left hand and reached even greater heights. Intimates of H. T. Webster, the cartoonist, have recently learned that due to a nerve trouble in his right arm his days at the drawing board were numbered. He, like Tad, mastered his art with his left hand, and for five years has not used his right in limning. And doing his very best work with the change.

Such achievements are encouraging to those of us who sit at typewriters slouched on one hip. Some day we may sit up straight like men.

What Do You Know?

About Old Boston

1. When was the Post Office established in Boston?
2. When was the second newspaper printed in Boston?
3. Who was called the Father of Boston?
4. Who was placed in stocks in State street for being with drunkards?
5. When were lamps first lighted in the streets of Boston?
6. Is there any record of a person being hanged for arson?
7. Who set up the first printing press in Boston?

1. In 1710. The mail was sent to Plymouth and Maine once a week and to New York once a fortnight.
2. Dec. 21, 1719, called the Boston Gazette.
3. William Johnson, a wealthy planter who persuaded the Governor to cross the river from Charlestown and live in Boston.
4. John Wedgewood in 1631.
5. Sept. 4, 1774.
6. A colored man was hanged in Boston for burning a house on Beacon st., belonging to the estate of James Bowdoin.
7. In 1674 John Foster set up the first printing press.

A Just Rebuke

Jury Duty of Great Importance

Judge George Hayes in Superior Court indignantly rebukes a manufacturing company for discharging an employe who was called to jury service and who performed that duty to his State.

> "A jury," said Judge Hayes, "is drafted under conditions much similar to those which exist in time of war. And jurors have no choice in the matter."

Judge Hayes' indignation is righteous.

It exists to rid the public of the crime which threatens its safety.

It exists to exonerate American men and women of crimes of which they are suspected but of which they are innocent.

It exists to compose the differences and disputes between mutual citizens and to bring peace, justice and serenity.

Any person who functions in that institution for those excellent purposes is due the gratitude of the public, not reprisals which destroy his right to earn a living.

A conspicuous fault of our so-called Big Business men and other superior people is their contempt for jury service.

They seek a thousand and one devices to escape a service to the public which they ought to perform and which they ought to be compelled to perform.

When they complain of unjustly high verdicts against "Business" by some juries, they should lodge the complaint against themselves. Because their deliberate absence from the juries deprives the jurors of the viewpoint and of some of the rights and privileges of Big Business.

Perhaps Judge Hayes' indignation will drive some of them to their senses.

The Rumor Mongers

Gov. Ely's Quick and Needed Warning

A shrewish old woman confessed to her spiritual adviser that she had spread gossip about her neighbors.

"On the next windy morning," he penanced her, "go to the top of the hill, open a bag of feathers, then collect them again and return to me."

She returned, dejected. It had been impossible to gather the feathers. THE WIND HAD BLOWN THEM IN EVERY DIRECTION.

So it is with malicious, unfounded whisperings about banks.

Whether they originate with idle tongues or with paid whisperers in the employ of vicious competitors, they serve the same contemptible purpose.

They promote panic and uneasiness where there is no cause for either.

The State, in its wisdom generations ago, took cognizance of this evil and made the spread of unfounded rumors against the banking institutions a criminal offense. Governor Ely wisely decides to invoke that statute if necessary.

The banks of Massachusetts have the experience of centuries behind them. Their per capita deposits are unsurpassed anywhere, demonstrating the justifiable confidence of the people in them.

The people of Massachusetts are too wise in their day and generation to permit their confidence to be impaired to the slightest degree by the prattlings of irresponsible busybodies.

An Easy Way to Help

Morgan Memorial Can Use Your Cast-Offs

It may be an old doll your baby is through with.

A pair of shoes or suit of clothes that has outlived its usefulness to Father.

Personal trinkets or tableware that have lost their lustre for YOU.

Possibly abandoned chairs, with seats out, or other household furniture you are not disposed to repair.

Phone or write the Morgan Memorial, of Boston.

They will call for them and accept them gladly.

IN THEIR FACTORY, THEY HAVE 300 MEN AND WOMEN CONSTANTLY EMPLOYED, cleansing, renovating, repairing goods and articles of every imaginable description.

They could employ 10,000 men and women.

They have by no means reached their capacity.

All they need is the gift of things. Not articles of rare value, but of the ordinary things that clutter up the average home and are of no substantial use to the owners.

Come on, housewives. It's strictly up to you.

Remember the Morgan Memorial. You will be supplying work for men and women who are in need of work.

Reading for Wives

After less than a year of connubial life a Hollywood actress had herself divorced because her husband objected to her reading books of philosophy.

Things are often very difficult for brides. Often they find they haven't married the person suited to their requirements. They find when too late that they had got spliced in a fit of unbalanced emotion. Love has so little to do with balanced judgment.

One solution is to be philosophical about it. Plato said, "Whether you want to be one or don't want to, you HAVE to be a philosopher of some sort."

Books of philosophy—a fifty-foot bookshelf of them—are frequently aids to domestic bliss, though usually they are very much less helpful than a single book on cookery. Nobody has yet heard of a woman being divorced because she insisted on reading a cookbook.
